APPENDIX No. 1A.

Open General Licence for Export of List "C" Goods to Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Holland and Switzerland.

An Open General Licence has been issued allowing goods on Section "C" of the Prohibited List, including goods on sections "A" or "B" which have been transferred to section "C" by open general licence (Appendix No. 1, page 1234), but not including any goods contained in section "D," to be exported freely by freight from this country to Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Holland and Switzerland, on the following terms :—

Norway and Sweden.—Individual guarantees in respect of exports are no longer required, but the goods must be consigned to the appropriate Import Associations. In order that the method of consignment may be checked, an arrangement has been made whereby shippers are to forward the Customs Shipping Bills or Specifications (whichever are required under Customs regulations) to the Export Licence Department, 4, Central Buildings, Westminster, S. W. 1 (in envelopes marked "Shipping Section") for approval. Should the exporter actually have received a guarantee against re-export in respect of the transaction, it should be forwarded with the Shipping Bill or Specification, and if the guarantee has previously been sent to this Department, the reference number of the relative papers should be furnished. The Shipping Bills or Specifications will be amended, if necessary, and returned to the shippers stamped "Approved." Upon the production of approved Shipping Bills or Specifications, shipment will be allowed by H. M. Customs without any form of guarantee, subject to the usual Customs formalities. This procedure will not apply to any individual licences which have already been issued, or which may hereafter be issued in special cases.

Should exporters prefer, they may forward to this Department a duplicate of the usual advice sent to their shipping agents in lieu of a Shipping Bill or Specification. The advice will then be stamped and returned to them (or to their shipping agents if requested) for production to the Customs with the usual Shipping Bill or Specification. Documents addressed to the Shipping Branch of the Export Licence Department will be dealt with at once and will be despatched to exporters by return post.

Denmark.—The usual certificates from the Danish Associations must be produced to the Customs at the time of shipment. Where goods covered by one certificate are to be shipped in instalments, special arrangements should be made with the Customs on shipment of the first instalment. The certificates need not be produced to the Customs in any case where individual licences have been or may be issued by this Department in special cases.

Holland.—All goods may be consigned to the Netherland Oversea Trust for account of sub-consignee without the prior production of an N. O. T. certificate, though exporters who actually hold certificates should hand them to the Customs at the time of shipment. The same procedure will apply to outstanding licences.

Switzerland.—All consignable goods may be consigned to the Société Suisse de Surveillance Economique for account of the sub-consignee without prior production of any form of certificate, though exporters who actually hold certificates should hand them to the Customs at the time of shipment. A list of consignable goods is given in the Board of Trade Journal of the 9th May (the list will be printed in the next issue of the List of Export Prohibited Goods). The same procedure will apply to outstanding licences.

In cases where the Associations specified above refuse generally or specifically to accept consignment and exporters make a declaration to the Customs to this effect, the goods may be consigned to the Inter-Allied Trade Committees in Christiania, Stockholm, Copenhagen or The Hague, as the case may be, on account of the sub-consignee without the prior production of any document. In the case of Switzerland, consignment of such goods should be made to the British Legation at Berne. Non-consignable goods, not on the "free" list, should also be consigned to the British Legation at Berne.

Further information will be given as soon as it is known which of the above-mentioned Associations are prepared to accept consignment. Meantime consignors should get into touch with consignees in respect of goods which will be ready for shipment in the next few weeks, with a view to ascertaining whether the appropriate Association will accept consignment or not.

Applications for licences should continue to be made to the Export Licence Department (4, Central Buildings, Westminster, S. W. 1) for all goods on sections "A", "B" or "D" of the Prohibited List. Application should also be made for the following goods on section "C":—

EXPORT OF SILVER BULLION AND SILVER COIN.

The Board of Trade (Export Licence Department) announce that licences will now be granted freely for the export of silver bullion and silver coin of foreign mintage. Licences will not, as a general rule, be granted for the export of British silver coin.

CERTAIN LEATHER EXPORTS.

The Board of Trade announce that an open general licence has been issued for the export of the undermentioned forms of leather to all destinations, except those destinations to which goods on List C are prohibited from export:—

TRANSHIPMENT OF GOODS IN THE UNITED KINGDOM.

The Board of Trade (Export Licence Department) announce that goods of any description (other than foodstuffs from Europe destined for extra-European destinations) may be brought to this country for transhipment to any destination to which exports are ordinarily allowed, provided that in the case of any goods on Sections "A" or "B" of the list of prohibited exports the Bills of Lading clearly shew that the goods were intended for transhipment before they left the country of origin, or that other satisfactory evidence to that effect is produced to the Export Licence Department. If these conditions are observed, it will, therefore, in future be unnecessary to obtain the provisional approval of that department before bringing goods to this country for transhipment. In the case of goods destined for the border neutral countries in Europe, the goods must be consigned to the Import Associations in accordance with the regulations for the time being in force in respect of direct exports from the United Kingdom.

Applications for transhipment permits should in all cases still be made on the form S. 90 to the Customs authorities at the port of arrival; and as regards any goods on Sections "A" or "B" of the list of prohibited exports, the Bills of Lading, if available, should accompany the S. 90 form.

No. 4407.—The following Board of Trade list and special supplements thereto, dated the 16th May 1919, on the subject of prohibitions of export from the United Kingdom are published for general information :—

Open General Licence for export of List C Goods to Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Holland and Switzerland.

An Open General Licence has been issued allowing goods on Section C of the Prohibited List, including those shown in Appendix No. 1 but not including any goods contained in Section D to be exported freely by freight from this country to Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Holland and Switzerland on the following terms:—

Norway and Sweden.—Individual guarantees in respect of exports are no longer required, but the goods must be consigned to the appropriate Import Associations. In order that the method of consignment may be checked, an arrangement has been made where by shippers are to forward the Customs Shipping Bills or Specifications (whichever are required under Customs regulations) to the Export Licence Department, 4, Central Buildings, Westminster, S.W. 1 (in envelopes marked "Shipping Section") for approval. Should the exporter actually have received a guarantee against re-export in respect of the transaction, it should be forwarded with the Shipping Bill or Specification, and if the guarantee has previously been sent to this Department, the reference number of the relative papers should be furnished. The Shipping Bills or Specifications will be amended, if necessary, and returned to the shippers stamped "approved". Upon the production of approved Shipping Bills or Specifications, shipment will be allowed by H. M. Customs without any form of guarantee, subject to the usual Customs formalities. This procedure will not apply to any individual licences which have already been issued, or which may hereafter be issued in special cases.

Should exporters prefer, they may forward to this Department a duplicate of the usual advice sent to their shipping agents in lieu of a Shipping Bill or Specification. The advice will then be stamped and returned to them (or to their shipping agents if requested) for production to the Customs with the usual Shipping Bill or Specification. Documents addressed to the Shipping Branch of the Export Licence Department will be dealt with at once and will be despatched to exporters by return post.

Denmark.—The usual certificates from the Danish Associations must be produced to the Customs at the time of shipment. Where goods covered by one certificate are to be shipped in instalments, special arrangements should be made with the Customs at the time of shipment. The certificates need not be produced to the Customs in any case where individual licences have been or may be issued by the Export Licence Department in special cases.

Holland.—All goods may be consigned to the Netherlands Oversea Trust for account of the sub-consignee without the prior production of an N.O.T. certificate, though exporters who actually hold certificates should hand them to the Customs at the time of shipment. The same procedure will apply to outstanding licences.

Switzerland.—All consignable goods may be consigned to the Société Suisse de Surveillance Economique for account of sub-consignee without prior production of any form of certificate, though exporters who actually hold certificates should hand them to the Customs at the time of shipment. The same procedure will apply to outstanding licences. A list of consignable goods is issued as a supplement to the List of "Export Prohibited Goods."

URGENT ORDERS.

The Board of Trade, Export Licence Department, announces that, in collaboration with the Department of Oberseas Trade, an arrangement has been made whereby firms receiving orders which require immediate acceptance may telegraph details of any such order to the Department of Overseas Trade in order to ascertain whether a licence will be granted for the export of the goods if the order is accepted.

In the event of an applicant being promised a licence he will be enabled to deal with the order straightaway with the knowledge that upon application being made in the proper form to the Export Licence Department the licence will be granted.

The telegrams should be addressed to "Orders, c/o Advantage, Stock, London." They should give in each case in addition to the name and postal or telegraphic address of the applicant the quantity and description of the goods comprised in the order and the name and address of the ultimate consignee if the goods are destined for a neutral country. In the case of orders from Allied or British Territory or from Territory in the occupation of troops of the Associated Governments, the consignee need not be stated; and it will be sufficient merely to give the country of destination. A reply of 24 words (1-3) must be prepaid.

Applicants are requested in their own interest to confine their enquiries to orders needing a very urgent decision, since the fewer the enquiries the more promptly can answers be given.

Any subsequent correspondence that is necessary in connection with the telegraphic enquiries should be addreesed to the Comptroller General, Department of Overseas Trade (Export Facilities Section), 73, Basinghall Street, E.C. 3.

RESOLUTION ON THE ANNUAL REPORT ON THE POLICE ADMINISTRATION OF THE TOWN OF CALCUTTA AND ITS SUBURBS FOR THE YEAR 1918.

GOVERNMENT OF BENGAL.

POLITICAL DEPARTMENT.

Police Branch.

CALCUTTA THE 27TH JUNE 1919.

RESOLUTION—No. 2211P.J.

READ—

THE Annual Report on the Police Administration of the town of Calcutta and its suburbs for the year 1918.

MR. R. CLARKE, C.I.E., held charge of the office of the Commissioner of Police throughout the year, except for a period of one month and thirteen days, when he was on leave, and Mr. J. S. Wilson acted for him in addition to his own duties as Deputy Commissioner in charge of headquarters.

2. Important changes in the superior staff of the Calcutta Police were made during the year. Three Superintendents' posts were converted into Provincial Assistant Commissionerships on a time scale of Rs. 400—25—500. The charge of the Training School will in future be held by an Assistant Commissioner of the Calcutta Police instead of by an officer of the Indian Police, as hitherto, and it has been decided to reserve one post of Deputy Commissioner for Provincial Assistant Commissioners. It has given the Governor in Council much pleasure to secure for the officers of the Calcutta Police this improvement in their prospects, which they have fully merited by their good work and devotion to duty.

The only important addition to the force during the year was that of 22 posts of head constables in connection with a scheme for the reorganization and increase of the traffic police, which has been rendered necessary by the development of the city of Calcutta.

3. The general increase of two rupees a month in the pay of constables, sanctioned by the Secretary of State, has not appreciably improved recruitment. Despite fewer resignations, the total number of vacancies in the rank and file at the close of the year was 560, and recruitment was not sufficient to fill the annual casualties. These recruiting difficulties were largely due to the war, and it is hoped that, as demobilization progresses, it will be possible to secure a fair number of recruits during the present year ; but it will be some time before the force can be brought up to strength with properly trained men.

4. The new police headquarters were occupied in November, and since the close of the year land has been acquired for an extension to provide quarters for married European inspectors and sergeants. The old Police Hospital in Amherst Street, which was unsuited for modern requirements, has been sold, and a site for a new hospital has been acquired at Bhowanipur. Owing to the financial stringency, it was not possible to do much during the year towards solving the difficulty of housing the police in Calcutta. The yearly rent paid to private owners rose from Rs. 2,83,178 in 1917 to Rs. 2,99,474 in 1918. The existing arrangement under which 75 per cent. of the force is accommodated in rented buildings is uneconomical, and the Governor in Council awaits the proposals which the Commissioner of Police expects to submit to Government shortly.

5. The total number of true cognizable cases, including petty cases under all Acts, reported during the year was 85,324, as compared with 106,540 in the previous year. The decrease was mainly in offences under special and local laws, and was due to the issue of orders requiring a stricter scrutiny of petty offences under the Police Acts, and restricting prosecutions in certain cases. There was a slight increase in serious crime, but excise cases showed a further marked fall. The number of cognizable cases disposed of by Honorary Magistrates was 56,726, an increase of 5,455 over the previous year. There was a slight decrease in the number of cases committed to the sessions. As many as 1,396 old offenders were reconvicted. In view of the unsuitability of the provisions of section 565 of the Criminal Procedure Code to the conditions of a large city like Calcutta, the Commissioner of Police has proposed certain amendments, which are now under the consideration of Government, in connection with a draft Calcutta Police Bill. At the close of the year there were in the city 165 registered members of criminal tribes, of whom 18 were prosecuted for offences against the Criminal Tribes Act, 1911. All the cases ended in conviction.

The Detective Department investigated 164 cases and assisted the local police in 97 other cases. Mr. Clarke has furnished interesting details of some of these offences, which included several cases of abduction of minor girls for the purpose of prostitution.

6. Of the 1,131 juvenile offenders convicted during the year, 1,032 were tried in the special court attached to the House of Detention. Twenty-five were sentenced to imprisonment in the Juvenile Jail and 46 were sent to reformatories. In the case of the remainder, milder punishments were inflicted. Apart from juveniles, 161 persons were dealt with as first offenders under section 562, Criminal Procedure Code, against 127 and 153 in the two previous years.

7. For the first time since 1912, Calcutta was free from open revolutionary crime. The officers of the Special Branch are to be congratulated on this successful result of their long struggle with the revolutionary conspiracy. A number of prominent revolutionaries were arrested in hiding places in the city during the year, and some significant seizures of arms and seditious literature were made.

8. The number of motor vehicles running in the city continues to increase and is now estimated at over 5000, including 863 motor-cycles. There was a regrettable increase in the number of street accidents, 66 of which proved fatal, as compared with 54 in the previous year. The increase is attributed by the Commissioner in part to the reduction of street lighting. Several gentlemen gave valuable assistance as Special Constables in the control of motor traffic, and the institution of a special Bench of Honorary Magistrates for the trial of motor cases has helped to expedite the proceedings and to save time and trouble to the public.

Under the provisions of the Calcutta Hackney Carriages Act, 1919, the control of hackney carriages will shortly be transferred from the Calcutta Corporation to the Calcutta Police, and the Government of India have recently sanctioned, pending the final orders of the Secretary of State, the creation of a new department, to be called the Public Vehicles Department, comprising two branches, one for motor vehicles and the other for hackney carriages, each with its own establishment in charge of an Assistant Commissioner of Police, the entire department being administered by a Deputy Commissioner of Police.

9. The Cinematograph Act, passed by the Imperial Legislative Council during the year, has not yet been brought into force, but the voluntary censorship boards established in Calcutta have continued to do valuable work, and their control and advice are readily accepted by bioscope proprietors. There are, however, obvious objections to a voluntary system applicable only to a single city and with no legal basis for its operations, and it is hoped that the issue of regulations under the new Act will not be long delayed.

10. The working of the Calcutta Fire Brigade continues to be satisfactory, but the loss of property due to damage by fire and water was large, owing to several big jute fires during the early part of the year, in which delay occurred in giving the alarm to the Fire Brigade. The Brigade was called out on 526 occasions, as compared with 377 in the previous year.

11. The peace of the city was unfortunately broken by an outbreak of rioting which occurred on the 9th and 10th September and resulted in a lamentable loss of life. The causes which led to the disturbances were fully reviewed at the time, and it is unnecessary to re-open the matter. The police force of Calcutta were subjected to a severe strain, many of the officers and men being on duty for forty-eight hours at a stretch, and it is a matter for the highest satisfaction that no authenticated case of misconduct of any kind on the part of the police was brought to notice, while commendations of their behaviour during the riots were received from many varied sources.

12. The Governor in Council has read with pleasure the list of officers who have been commended by the Commissioner of Police for good work. To Mr. Clarke himself the special thanks of Government are due for his administration of the Calcutta Police during a year of unusual stress and difficulty.

ORDER.—Ordered that a copy of this Resolution be forwarded to the Commissioner of Police, Calcutta, the Chief Presidency Magistrate, Calcutta, and the Commissioner of the Presidency Division, for information.

Ordered, also, that a copy of the Resolution and a copy of the Report be submitted to the Government of India in the Home Department.

Ordered, also, that the Resolution be published in the Calcutta Gazette.

By order of the Governor in Council,

J. H. KERR,

Chief Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

DEPARTMENT OF STATISTICS, INDIA.

CALCUTTA TRADE FLUCTUATIONS.

THE following tables are intended to show the trade by all routes, i.e., by rail, river, canal, road, and sea, of the Calcutta block* in certain selected articles during the month of April, 1919, as compared with the corresponding period of 1918 and 1917. The statistics have been compiled from returns furnished by the Collector of Customs, Calcutta, Railway Audit Offices, Steamer Companies, the Commissioners for the Port of Calcutta, the Collectors of the 24-Parganas and Howrah, and the Assistant Engineer, Calcutta Canals.

The value of the imports by rail, river, road and sea (coastwise) of Indian cotton piece-goods showed an increase of 188 per cent, the total value amounting to Rs. 53,58,000 as against Rs. 18,61,000 in 1918. The imports of raw jute amounted to 222,000 bales as against 336,000 bales,—a decrease of 34 per cent. The importations of gunny bags also showed a decrease of 6 per cent (28 million bags as against 30 millions in the preceding year). The total imports of oilseeds (linseed and rape and mustard seed) increased by 29 per cent from 549,000 maunds to 708,000 maunds. The imports of tea increased by 12 per cent from 137,000 maunds to 153,000 maunds.

Exports.—The exports of cotton piecegoods, foreign, from Calcutta* by all routes during the month of April, 1919, increased by 9 per cent (Rs. 2,63,87,000 as against Rs. 2,42,75,000 last year). The exports of gunny bags (including the exports by sea to foreign countries) increased from 77 million bags to 99 million bags, and the shipments of gunny bags to other Indian ports increased from 5 millions to 7 millions in number in the period under review. The quantity of kerosene oil despatched from Calcutta and Budge-Budge by internal routes and by sea (coastwise) decreased from 404,000 maunds to 369,000 maunds, or by 9 per cent.

* The Calcutta block consists of the town of Calcutta with Howrah and Kidderpore Docks.

DISTRICT REPORTS ON WEATHER AND CROPS.

For the week ending on the 26th June 1919.

Summary.—Seasonable rain generally fell throughout the province and the weather was favourable for standing crops and agricultural operations. More rain is, however, needed for transplanting of paddy seedlings. The average price of common rice for the province shows a slight tendency to fall as compared with that of the previous week. Distress continues to be reported from parts of Murshidabad, Tippera and the Chittagong Hill Tracts. The average number of persons engaged daily on test works in the Brahmanbaria subdivision of the Tippera district was 2,456.

No. 4.—Notification.—In exercise of the power conferred by sections 6 and 11 of the Canals Act, 1864 (Bengal Act V of 1864), the Governor in Council is pleased to make the following amendment in the schedule of tolls in force on the Calcutta canals and Tolly's Nala and in the rules for the management of navigation thereon, published in notification No. 7, dated the 11th May 1915 (at pages 903-05 of Part I of the Calcutta Gazette of the 12th idem) :—

Amendment.

Delete items 13 and 15 and read item 14 as item 13.

Add as item 14.

14. (1) During the period of closure of the Tolly's Nala at Samookpota, boats laden with firewood will be allowed to proceed to or from the river Bidyadhari or the Bhangore khal through the Circular or Kristopur Canal and the Tolly's Nala vid Kidderpore on payment of two rupees per hundred maunds of measured maundage for passage through these canals. All other cargo-boats will pay a rate of one rupee and twelve annas per hundred maunds of measured maundage.

(2) Boats plying under this concession will not be allowed either to load or to unload their cargo along the Circular Canal, the Kristopur Canal, or the river Hooghly. Infringement of this rule will render such boats liable to the ordinary tolls in force for the Circular Canal.

(3) (a) Boats laden with cargo other than firewood may pick up extra cargo, either in the Kristopur Canal, the Circular Canal or the river Hooghly. The toll collectors at Chitpur, Kristopur and Dhappa, respectively, will, in that case, assess and collect the extra toll due on the cargo at twelve annas per hundred maunds, provided the maundage of the boat does not exceed that when it originally entered at Dhappa or Kristopur.

(b) If there is an excess at the time of leaving Tolly's Nala a rate of two rupees and eight annas per hundred maunds will be charged on the extra cargo at Kidderpore. This will entitle the boat to pass beyond Dhappa or Kristopur without any further payment

(c) If cargo is picked up either in the Hooghly or in the Circular or Kristopur Canal the extra toll on the extra amount will be charged at the rate of one rupee and twelve annas per hundred maunds.

(4) For the purposes of reckoning demurrage charges under item 11 of this schedule on the boats herein defined two extra days will be allowed over and above those provided for vessels plying in the Tolly's Nala.

GOVERNMENT OF BENGAL.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

NOTIFICATION.

No. 1012L., dated Calcutta, the 4th July 1919.—The following Bill was introduced in the Bengal Legislative Council on the 3rd July, 1919, and is hereby published for information, together with the Statement of Objects and Reasons annexed thereto :—

THE CALCUTTA AND SUBURBAN POLICE (AMENDMENT) BILL, 1919.

further to amend the Calcutta Police Act, 1866, and the Calcutta Suburban Police Act, 1866.

WHEREAS it is expedient further to amend the Calcutta Police Act, 1866, and the Calcutta Suburban Police Act, 1866, in the manner hereinafter appearing ; Ben. Act IV of 1866. Ben. Act II of 1866.

It is hereby enacted as follows :—

Short title. 1. This Act may be called the Calcutta and Suburban Police (Amendment) Act, 1919.

Amendment of Ben. Act IV of 1866, s 9, and Ben Act II of 1866, s. 3.

2. In section 9 of the Calcutta Police Act, 1866 (hereinafter called "the Calcutta Act"), and in section 3 of the Calcutta Suburban Police Act, 1866 (hereinafter called "the Suburban Act"), for the word "approbation" the word "control" shall be substituted.

Amendment of Ben. Act IV of 1866, s 10, and Ben Act II of 1866, s. 4

3. (1) Section 10 of the Calcutta Act shall be renumbered section 10, sub-section (1), and section 4 of the Suburban Act shall be renumbered section 4, sub-section (1).

(2) To the said section 10 of the Calcutta Act, and to the said section 4 of the Suburban Act, the following shall be added, namely:—

"(2) A police-officer shall not by reason of being suspended from office cease to be a police-officer. During the term of such suspension the powers, privileges and duties conferred or imposed upon him as a police-officer shall be in abeyance, but he shall continue subject to the same responsibilities, discipline and penalties and to the same authorities, as if he had not been suspended". [Cf. Act V of 1861, s. 8, third para.]

Statement of Objects and Reasons.

Recent judicial proceedings have brought to light two defects in the Calcutta Police Act, 1866 (Bengal Act IV of 1866) and in the Calcutta Suburban Police Act, 1866 (Bengal Act II of 1866).

2. Under section 9 of the Calcutta Police Act and under section 3 of the Calcutta Suburban Police Act, the Commissioner of Police is authorized, subject to the approbation of the Local Government, to frame orders and regulations relative to the general government of the force. The meaning of the term "approbation" has never been judicially determined, but it might be held to require each individual order relating to the discipline of the police-force, to be submitted to Government for approval before issue by the Commissioner of Police. This would be impracticable, neither is it necessary; it is therefore proposed, by clause 2 of the Bill, to substitute for "approbation" the term "control", which is the expression ordinarily used in similar circumstances in modern legislation.

3. Neither the Calcutta Police Act, nor the Calcutta Suburban Police Act contain a provision corresponding to that embodied in section 8 of the Police Act, 1861 (V of 1861), to the effect that a police-officer under suspension continues subject to the same responsibilities, discipline and penalties, and to the same authorities as if he had not been suspended. This provision was added to the Police Act of 1861 in 1895, in consequence of difficulties similar to those which have recently arisen in Calcutta, and its omission from the Calcutta Acts seems to have been due to oversight. It is now proposed, by clause 3 of the Bill, to insert a similar provision in both the Calcutta Acts.

4. As these defects in the Calcutta Acts are liable to impair the discipline of the police-force, and may at any time lead to serious practical difficulties, it is proposed to remedy them at once, instead of waiting for a general revision of the Calcutta Acts, which is now under consideration.

REPORT ON FAMINE IN THE DISTRICT OF BANKURA FOR THE WEEK ENDING 28th JUNE 1919.

During the week there was insufficient rainfall which retarded the agricultural operations. Sixty-six relief works were open during the week. The number of persons relieved on works was 7,305. The number of persons in receipt of gratuitous relief was 19,623, viz., 14,910 on cash doles, 3,427 on paddy-husking advances, 759 weavers and 527 better class poor. The total number of persons relieved was 26,928. The decrease in the number of persons on relief works was due to agricultural operations, while the increase in numbers on gratuitous relief was due to the opening of new relief centres. Four charitable societies relieved 1,894 persons by rice doles. Offences against property are increasing. The physical condition of workers and public health are good. Fodder and water are sufficient. Cloth is being distributed to destitutes. The relief measures are adequate. The price of common rice is stationary and varies from 5 to 5½ seers per rupee.

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE, BENGAL.

Preliminary Forecast of the Jute Crop in Bengal, 1919.

(NOTE.—On an average of five years ending 1917-18, the area under jute to which this forecast relates represents 87·7 per cent. of the total area under jute in British India.)

THIS forecast deals with the estimates of area sown and the present condition of the crop, based on information received through the agency of the panchayats, as in previous years.

Area Sown.—The returns show a total area sown of 2,431,063 acres, being an increase of 182,037 acres, or about 8 per cent. over the final figures for 1918. The increase may be attributed largely to the high prices ruling last year and to anticipation, on the part of cultivators, that good prices will continue to be paid during the present season. Favourable weather conditions probably encouraged increased sowings in the Presidency and Burdwan Divisions.

Character of the Season.—In January rainfall was generally above normal in Western and Northern Bengal, but below normal in Eastern Bengal. In February, March and the beginning of April there was a prolonged drought, and the rainfall was considerably below normal, especially in Eastern Bengal. The drought was so severe that some early sown jute flowered in late April and early May. In the latter part of April there were good showers, on which a very large area was sown. The subsequent moderate rainfall in May, which was generally less than normal, and markedly so in Eastern Bengal, has been beneficial, on the whole, to the later sown crop, especially on low-lying lands. The tardy rise of the rivers has also helped the later sown low-land jute. There has so far been comparatively little damage by insect pests.

Present State of the Crop.—While not so good at present as that of 1917, at the time of the preliminary forecast, this year's crop promises better than that of 1918.

Stocks in hand.—The reports indicate that stocks of old jute are generally small.

Officiating Director of Agriculture, Bengal.

24-Parganas ...	44,425	61,619	Very little	Middle of April; normal.	The increase in area is due to favourable weather conditions during the sowing season, as also to the increase of price obtained last year and the further rise expected this year. Weather has been favourable on the whole. Slight damage to the crop on low lands is reported from Barasat.
Nadia	50,273	67,333	Little in all subdivisions, except in Sadar, where some jute remains.	Middle of April; normal.	Increase in area sown is due to high price of jute obtained last year. The weather has been favourable and the present condition of the crop is good.
Murshidabad	12,189	17,180	Some jute in Jangipur and Lalbagh subdivisions, but none elsewhere.	May to June; late ...	The increase in area is due to expectation of a good price owing to the termination of the war. Weather has been favourable and the present condition of the crop is good.
Jessore	53,034	79,035	A small quantity only	Second week of April; normal.	The increase in area is due to the prospects of a better market. Insects are reported to have caused some damage in Kalia and Lohagara thanas.
Khulna	22,805	19,735	Little	April and May; normal.	The decrease in the area sown as compared with that of last year is due to the fact that there was no rain at the time of sowing. The recent rains have improved the condition of the crop, although the growth was somewhat retarded owing to insufficiency of rainfall at the outset.
Burdwan	5,605	6,281	Little	Second week of April; normal.	The increase in area is due to favourable weather condition at sowing time. Some damage was done to the crop in the Sadar subdivision by the Damodar flood in June. The present condition of the crop in Kalna subdivision is good.
Midnapore	10,555	10,598	Nil	May; normal	Slight damage was done to the crop by excessive rainfall in June. The present condition of the crop is fair.
Hooghly	27,235	31,170	Little	Beginning of May; normal.	The increase in area as compared with that of last year is due to timely rainfall and expectation of a high price of jute. Slight damage by insects as well as by recent heavy rains has been reported from the Serampur subdivision.
Howrah	7,266	9,991	Little	First week of May; normal.	The increase in area sown this year is due to timely rainfall. Character of weather at sowing time and up till now has been favourable, but not so in the Uluberia subdivision. The condition of the crop is good in Sadar but fair in Uluberia.
Rajshahi	74,300	65,955	Little	March to middle of April; normal.	The decrease in area sown is due to drought at sowing time. The crop is poor on high lands, but on low lands its growth is good.
Dinajpur	60,000	60,978	Little	End of April; late ...	Increase in area is due to the improvement in the jute market last year. Weather was not favourable at sowing time, but subsequent rainfall much improved the situation. Young early sown plants somewhat suffered from drought.
Jalpaiguri	43,890	49,306	Little	Middle of April; normal.	The weather has been favourable and the present condition of the crop is good.
Darjeeling	2,000	2,220	Practically nothing remains.	Middle of April; late	Better prices stimulated jute sowing this year. Weather was not favourable at sowing time, but subsequently it turned better. The present condition of the crop is good.
Rangpur	200,173	207,664	Little	March; normal ...	The increase in area is due to the prospects of a better market. The sowing time was marked by drought, but subsequently the weather turned more suitable and is at present favourable. The recent favourable weather has more or less counteracted the damage done by drought in the beginning of the season.
Bogra	66,438	69,945	Little	March; normal ...	Increase in area sown this year is due to rise in the price of jute. The weather was unfavourable at sowing time and for some time after, but gradually it became favourable and is so now. The present condition of the crop is fair.
Pabna	105,102	102,011	Some	A little late	The weather was not favourable at sowing time, but it turned favourable afterwards. Slight damage has been done by insects. The present condition the crop is on the whole favourable.

DISTRICT.	ESTIMATED AREA UNDER JUTE—		Whether much, little or no jute remains in the district from the crop of 1918.	Date by which the sowing of the crop generally commenced this year, and whether the date was early, normal or late.	REMARKS BY DISTRICT OFFICERS.

1	2	3	4	5	6
	Acres.	Acres.
Malda	29,000	26,400	Little	Middle of May; a little late.	The decrease in area is due to unfavourable weather at the time of sowing. The sowing on high lands was delayed owing to the late rainfall. The present condition of the crop is promising, although slight damage was caused by drought.
Dacca	292,452	283,517	Very little	End of March and beginning of April; late.	The decrease in area is due to continued drought at sowing time. Weather was not favourable at the beginning, but it improved subsequently. Slight damage has been caused by insect pests and drought. The present condition of the crop is fair.
Mymensingh ...	577,922	628,944	Little	Beginning of April; late.	The increase in area is due to the high prices obtained last year and to the expectation of a good market this year also. The weather was not favourable at sowing time, but it is generally favourable now. The present condition of the crop is hopeful, although drought somewhat retarded the growth of the crop at the beginning of the season.
Faridpur	218,100	258,400	Little	Middle of April; a little late.	The increase in area is due to high price of jute. Drought delayed sowings and affected the growth of the crop to some extent. The present condition is fair.
Bakarganj	50,227	56,633	Nil	April and early part of May; late.	The increase in area is due to good prices of jute obtained last year. The weather was somewhat unfavourable at the time of sowing and afterwards a long spell of dry weather in May retarded the growth to some extent, but no permanent injury was caused. The weather in June was very favourable. The present condition of the crop is good.
Chittagong	200	200	Nil	Last week of May; late.	Sowings were late for want of timely rainfall. The present condition of the crop is good.
Tippera	227,521	235,293	Some	April and May; somewhat late.	The slight increase in area is attributable to the high price of jute prevailing in the previous year. The weather was unfavourable at the time of sowing. Lack of rainfall early in the season also impeded the growth of the plants, but the rainfall in June improved the situation. The present condition of the crop is satisfactory.
Noakhali	37,500	41,400	Nil	March; normal ...	The increase in area is due to the high price obtained last year. The weather was not favourable at the time of sowing. The drought affected the growth of the crop at the beginning, but the present condition of the crop is on the whole good.

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE, BIHAR AND ORISSA.

Preliminary forecast of the Jute Crop of Bihar and Orissa, 1919.

(NOTE.—On an average of the five years ending 1917-18, the area under jute to which the Bihar and Orissa forecast relates represents about 9·1 per cent. of the total area under jute in British India.)

THE present forecast deals only with the estimated area sown. It gives also a general survey of prospects, but makes no reference to the probable outturn either in percentage figures or in bales.

2. Acreage.—The estimated area sown during the current and four preceding years in round numbers is given below :—

Year.	Acreage.
1915	188,100
1916	224,000
1917	223,300
1918	149,300
1919	202,800

3. Weather Conditions.—In March and April the rainfall was below the normal in all jute districts except Cuttack and Balasore, where it was above the normal in the latter month. In May the rainfall was below the normal everywhere except Balasore, where it was above the normal. In June the rainfall was above the normal in Champaran, Bhagalpur, Purnea and Balasore and below the normal elsewhere; it was excessive in Balasore.

4. District Returns.—The total area under jute as reported by the District Officers is estimated in round numbers at 202,800 acres as compared with 150,600 acres shown in the corresponding forecast of last year and 149,300 acres, the revised final figure of last year. The increase is due to better prices obtained last year.

5. Condition and Prospects.—The condition of the crop is fair in Purnea and generally good elsewhere.

6. General.—The quantity of jute which remains from the crop of 1918 is small.

The statement below compares the area under jute in this Province this year with the preliminary and final figures of last year :—

Increase in area is due to expectation of better prices this year and the advances given by one of the factories in the Sadar subdivision for cultivation of this crop.
Bhagalpur	Bhagalpur	2,061,020	1,684,100	1,257(a)	856 (b)	1,257	Little	May to June ...	The estimate of normal area has recently been revised. The figure for column 6 has been proportionately reduced in reference to the revised estimates of normal area. Practically the normal area has been put under jute crop this year.
	Purnea ...	3,196,153	1,694,400	219,000	122,00	175,000	Not much ...	March ...	The weather conditions have not been favourable owing to lack of rain in May. The condition of the crop is fair, so far. The date of sowing was a little late. Sowing has been completed. The crop is expected to be better than that of last year. The increase in area is due to the better price obtained last year and also in prices of all necessities of life for which people require more money. It is also due to small stock remaining in the hands of cultivators.
	Santal Parganas.	3,466,100	1,698,200	3,000	1,300	1,200	.....	.....	The condition of the crop is good.

The present condition of the crop is satisfactory. Sowings have been completed. The decrease in area sown this year as compared with that of last year is small and calls for no remarks. The date of sowing was normal.

The condition of the crop is good. The sowing was early and it has been completed. The crop of this year is expected to be better than that of last year. Jute sown late was to a certain extent damaged owing to excessive rain.

DEPARTMENT OF LAND RECORDS AND AGRICULTURE, ASSAM.

Preliminary Forecast of the Jute Crop in Assam, 1919.

(NOTE.—On the average of the five years ending 1917-18 the area under jute in Assam represents some 3·3 per cent. of the total area under jute in British India.)

1. Character of the Season.—There was very little rain in February and March. April and May were more favourable for sowing and the seasonable rains in June have facilitated growth to a considerable extent. In spite of the unfavourable weather at the beginning the condition of the crop is generally good and prospects are better than in last year in most districts.

2. Area sown.—The total area under jute as estimated by the Deputy Commissioners is 115,300 acres or about 12 per cent. more than the final figure of last year. The principal increase, 11,400 acres, is reported from Sylhet, where want of rain at the time for sowing the paddy crop is said to be responsible for the large increase, as the people turned to jute instead. The increase in the Brahmaputra Valley is due mainly to the extension of cultivation by settlers from Mymensingh.

3. Stocks.—According to the reports of the Deputy Commissioners there is little jute in stock from last year except in the Sadar subdivision of Goalpara, where a considerable quantity remained with the traders on account of the low prices offered.

Insects caused some damage to the crop in Goalpara subdivision at sowing time.
Kamrup ...	8,100	13,100*	12,900	.....	200	Little	1st April; normal	The difference in area is slight. The weather has been favourable to the crop and the prospects are likely to be better than last year. Little damage has been done to the crop by insects.

Lakhimpur ...	200	200*	100	.....	100	Little	1st April; normal	The decrease in area is reported to be due to unhealthiness amongst the cultivators. The weather has been favourable and the prospects of the crop are fair.
Garo Hills ...	4,100	4,600	3,000	.....	1,600	Little	Middle of April; late.	The decrease of area sown this year is due to want of timely rainfall and to low price of jute since the beginning of the war. The weather was not favourable at sowing time, but it is better now. Some damage was done to the crop by drought. The present condition of the crop is worse than in last year.

No. 1624-F., dated Simla, the 2nd July 1919.

RESOLUTION—By the Government of India, Finance Department.

AT a meeting of the Imperial Legislative Council held on the 14th of March 1918, in the course of the final debate on the Indian Income-tax Bill the Hon'ble Rao Bahadur B. N. Sarma moved that non-official assessors should be appointed in each district or part of a district to assist the Collector of Income-tax in any enquiry under section 18 of the Act. In the discussion on that motion, the Government of India undertook to enquire from Local Governments whether any further steps were desirable towards extending the informal employment of non-official agency when assessments to income-tax are under consideration.

2. In 1914, a somewhat similar question was discussed in the Indian Legislative Council on a resolution recommending that Local Governments should be consulted as to the desirability of establishing Advisory Boards composed of non-official gentlemen nominated by the revenue heads of districts to assist officials in assessing income-tax. This was accepted and the result of the reference to Local Governments and of the consultation, through them, of local opinion was embodied in the Government of India Resolution, No. 1287-F., dated 11th August 1915, which is reproduced as an annexure hereto. It will be seen that the opinions received were conclusively against the substitution of formal Advisory Boards for the existing system of informal consultation of non-officials.

3. The Government of India have now received the opinions of Local Governments and Administrations on the reference made to them in accordance with the undertaking mentioned above. It is generally pointed out the arguments put forward in 1914-15 against any extension of the existing system informally consulting non-official opinion, carry even more weight to-day than they did then. Whereas, under the former Act, the Income-tax Collector when making assessments was largely dependent upon records and information obtained from outside enquiry, under the present Act, the assessee himself is required to render an account of his assessable income. The necessity for resort to non-official assistance as a general practice has therefore disappeared. The Governor-General in Council is in agreement with these views and has accordingly decided that it is unnecessary to proceed further in the matter.

Ordered also that it be published in the Gazette of India.

Annexure.

Copy of a Resolution by the Government of India, in the Finance Department, No. 1287-F., dated 11th August 1915.

At a meeting of the Imperial Legislative Council held on the 24th of January 1914, the Hon'ble Mr. Rama Rayaningar moved a Resolution recommending that local Governments should be consulted as to the desirability of establishing Advisory Boards composed of non-official gentlemen nominated by the revenue heads of districts to assist officials in assessing income-tax. After some discussion, in the course of which certain prima facie objections to the policy advocated by the Hon'ble Mover were stated, the resolution was accepted on the ground that it was advisable to consult local Governments and through them public opinion as to the practicability and expediency of adopting the proposed method of assessment.

2. The Government of India have now received the views of all local Governments and Administrations on the subject, and it is found that the proposal has been widely canvassed and unhesitatingly condemned by practically all who were consulted. The general conclusion arrived at is that the creation of formal Advisory Boards would not improve the accuracy of assessment and would tend to make the tax more unpopular.

3. The objections advanced by local Governments and the public bodies and individuals whom they consulted confirm generally the criticism to which the proposal was subjected in the discussion in the Imperial Legislative Council. The more important arguments are summarised below :—

I. It is widely felt that business men would have the strongest objection to the disclosure of their accounts, and consequently of important information regarding their financial credit and methods of business, to a Board composed of their neighbours and possibly including trade rivals. It is an accepted principle of income-tax law that information of this kind, while necessary for purposes of assessment, should be regarded as absolutely confidential as between the State and the taxpayer, and the maintenance of this principle would be seriously endangered by the proposed system of assessment.

II. The principal utility of the proposed Boards would by hypothesis lie in their local and personal knowledge. It would therefore be necessary to appoint a special Board in each area of assessment and the authorities consulted anticipate the utmost difficulty in obtaining men possessing the requisite standing and sense of public responsibility. This difficulty would be specially great in rural areas. It is also urged that apart from other considerations the frequent prevalence of local factions would enhance the difficulty of securing a Board which would command the confidence both of Government and the assessees.

III. The proposed Advisory Boards would be exposed to conflicting influences, the sense of their duty to Government on the one hand and, on the other, pressure implied or expressed on the part of the assessees, with many of whom they would necessarily have some personal or business relations. The position would be most difficult to sustain, and it is generally believed that qualified men would be reluctant to undertake the task.

IV. It is represented that private individuals are often found by experience to be unwilling to take the responsibility of tendering advice in a formal and public way, and that influential and representative citizens who may at present be relied upon to give the Collector of Income-tax the benefit of their personal knowledge would thus be of diminished utility if identified with membership of an official committee

V. The introduction of Advisory Boards would tend to weaken the sense of responsibility of the official Income-tax Collector. The duties which he performs are necessarily of an inquisitorial and somewhat distasteful nature, and it would not be an altogether unnatural result if he should display a tendency to throw as much responsibility as possible on the shoulders of the Advisory Boards.

4. These opinions appear to the Government of India to be conclusive and they do not therefore propose to take any further steps in the direction of requiring local Governments to constitute formal Advisory Boards for the assessment of the tax.

5. The Government of India, however, do not desire to interfere with the existing practice by which non-offical agency is widely employed in an informal manner in connection with income-tax assessments. It appears from the recent correspondence with local Governments that in every province the assessing officer is required to seek information from persons likely to be acquainted with the circumstances of those already on the assessment roll, or who might be brought on it. In towns municipal commissioners, and leading representatives of the different communities and of commercial and industrial interests, are consulted; and in rural areas headmen, zaildars, and village panchayats where these exist. In one or two provinces small committees consisting of influential citizens, representative traders and manufacturers, are informally associated with Government officials in the work of assessment. The information thus collected is recorded confidentially by the Government assessing officer, and a further feature of the arrangements generally obtaining is that in each case efforts are made to obtain information from a number of independent sources with the object of correcting or eliminating as far as possible biassed or inaccurate statements. Or, again, where questions of accounts are concerned, the assessee may be permitted, if he so desires, to have his books examined by a non-official commission and care is taken to select for such commissions gentlemen well qualified by their knowledge of business, their familiarity with systems of accounts and by a reputation for trustworthiness.

These expedients are legitimate and suitable and it is understood that they have proved of material assistance in the work of assessing the tax. The matter, however, is one with which Provincial Governments are competent to deal, and it is unnecessary for the Government of India to do more than indicate their general approval of the methods employed, leaving it to local Governments to maintain and develop the existing procedure on practical lines suited to the varying circumstances of the communities with whom the assessing officer has to deal.

APPENDIX No. 1A.

OPEN GENERAL LICENCE FOR EXPORT OF LIST "C" GOODS.

An Open General Licence has been issued allowing goods on section C of the Prohibited List, including those shown in Appendix No. 1 (page 521), but not including any goods contained in section D (page 521), to be exported freely by freight from this country to Sweden, Denmark, Holland and Switzerland, on the following terms :—

SWEDEN.—Individual guarantees in respect of exports are no longer required, but the goods must be consigned either (1) to the appropriate Import Associations or (2) to the Inter-Allied Trade Committee at Stockholm, who will endorse the Bills of Lading (without any financial liability) on receipt of satisfactory guarantees from the consignee. In order that the method of consignment may be checked, an arrangement has been made whereby shippers are to forward the Customs Shipping Bills or Specifications (whichever are required under Customs regulations) to the Export Licence Department, 4, Central Buildings, Westminster, S. W. 1 (in envelopes marked "Shipping Section"), for approval. Should the exporter actually have received a guarantee against re-export in respect of the transaction, it should be forwarded with the Shipping Bill or Specification, and if the guarantee has previously been sent to this Department, the reference number of the relative papers should be furnished. The Shipping Bills or Specifications will be amended if necessary, and returned to the shippers stamped "Approved." Upon the production of approved Shipping Bills or Specifications, shipment will be allowed by H. M. Customs without any form of guarantee, subject to the usual Customs formalities. This procedure will not apply to any individual licences which have already been issued, or which may hereafter be issued in special cases.

Should exporters prefer, they may forward to this Department a duplicate of the usual advice sent to their shipping agents in lieu of a Shipping Bill or Specification. The advice will then be stamped and returned to them (or to their shipping agents if requested) for production to the Customs with the usual Shipping Bill or Specification. Documents addressed to the Shipping Branch of the Export Licence Department will be dealt with at once and will be despatched to exporters by return post.

DENMARK.—The usual certificates from the Danish Associations must be produced to the Customs at the time of shipment, and in such cases the goods may be consigned direct to the consignee. Where goods covered by one certificate are to be shipped in instalments special arrangements should be made with the Customs on shipment of the first instalment. Where the exporter is in a position to declare that the Associations will not issue a certificate, the goods may be consigned to the Inter-Allied Trade Committee at Copenhagen, for account of the actual consignee. The certificates need not be produced to the Customs in any case where individual licences have been or may be issued by the Export Licence Department in special cases.

Holland.—All goods may be consigned to the Netherlands Oversea Trust for account of the sub-consignee without the prior production of an N. O. T. certificate, though exporters who actually held certificates should have them to the Customs at the time of shipment. The same procedure will apply to outstanding licenses.

Switzerland.—All consignable goods (except foodstuffs) a list of which is issued as a special supplement to the "List of Export Prohibited Goods," should be consigned to the Société Suisse de Surveillance, but the prior production of an S.S.S. certificate to the Customs will not be necessary, even in respect of licences already issued which may stipulate for the production of S.S.S. certificates. Any S.S.S. certificates actually in the possession of exporters should, however, be handed to the Customs when the goods to which they relate are shipped. It is, however, still necessary for the actual consignee in Switzerland to obtain an S.S.S. certificate before the goods can be handed over by the Swiss Customs. It is important, therefore, that exporters should, immediately on receipt of an order from Switzerland, advise the Swiss purchaser to take the necessary steps to obtain the certificate from the S.S.S.

In cases where the S.S.S. have refused generally or specifically to accept consignment for any customer, an application for specific licence should be made to this Department. The fact that the S.S.S. have refused to accept consignment should be clearly mentioned on the application form.

Goods not consignable to the S.S.S. may be despatched direct to the purchaser.

Applications for licences for the above countries should continue to be made to the Export Licence Department (4, Central Buildings, Westminster, S. W. S.) for all goods on Section A, B or D of the Prohibited List. Applications should also be made for the following goods on Section C :

(a) goods to be despatched by parcel post ;
(b) goods intended for the personal use of the recipient ;

Applications to export goods in reasonable quantities to private consignees in Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Holland, and Finland will be considered without consignment to the usual Importing Associations or production of gurantees against re export.

It must be understood that no goods can be despatched under this scheme except such as are for the personal use of the consignee and of his family.

(c) isolated trade transactions not exceeding £5 in value.

Exports by parcel post to neutral countries in Europe are allowed without consignment to the usual Importing Associations, or, in the case of Denmark, guarantees against re-export, provided the value of the parcel does not exceed £5. It should, however, be distinctly understood that this procedure is intended to apply to isolated transactions only, and that exporters cannot be allowed to despatch large numbers of parcels to the same consignee without consignment to the appropriate Import Association ; it will not, however, be necessary for certificates from those Associations to be produced.

In each case (except as regards (b) and (c) above, for which guarantees are usually waived) exporters should state whether the appropriate Importing Association is willing to accept consignment of the goods ; and if the Association has refused to accept consignment, generally or specifically, that fact should be stated.

Norway.—An open general licence has been issued for all goods not on List A or B, whether exported by freight or parcel post, without restriction as to method of consignment.

APPENDIX No. 1B.

Foodstuffs (including raw materials for the manufacture of foodstuffs) may now be exported to Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Holland and Switzerland without the intervention of official consignees. Licences for foodstuffs on List A and B will, therefore, where home supplies permit, be issued providing for consignment direct of the purchaser.

As regards foodstuffs on List C, an open general licence has been issued permitting export to be made direct to the consignee without the production of individual guarantees against re-export. Shipping bills (or specifications) in respect of such goods need, therefore, no longer be produced to the export Licence Department to be stamped "approved" before production to H. M. Customs.

The term "foodstuffs" should be regarded as including spices and beverages.

URGENT ORDERS.

The Board of Trade, Export Licence Department, announces that, in collaboration with the Department of Overseas Trade, an arrangement has been made whereby firms receiving orders which require immediate acceptance may telegraph details of any such order to the Department of Overseas Trade in order to ascertain whether a licence will be granted for the export of the goods if the order is accepted.

In the event of an applicant being promised a licence he will be enabled to deal with the order straightaway with the knowledge that upon application being made in the proper form to the Export Licence Department the licence will be granted.

The telegram should be addressed to "Orders, c/o Advantage, Stock, London." They should give in each in addition to the name and postal or telegraphic address of the applicant or the quantity and description of the goods comprised in the order and the name and address of the ultimate consignee if the goods are destined for a neutral country. In the case of orders from Allied or British Territory or from Territory in the occupation of troops of the Associated Governments, the consignee need not be stated; and it will be sufficient merely to give the country of destination. A reply of 24 words (1-3) must be prepaid.

Applicants are requested in their own interests to confine their enquiries to orders needing a very urgent decision, since the fewer the enquiries the more promptly can answers be given.

Any subsequent correspondence that is necessary in connection with the telegraphic enquiries should be addressed to the Comptroller General, Department of Overseas Trade (Export Facilities Section), 73, Basinghall Street, E. C. 3.

August 1916 to secure repayment of Rs. 20,000 with interest thereon at the rate of Rs. 7½ per cent. per annum with quarterly rests, but in case of regular payment of interest the same will be charged at the rate of Rs. 6½ per cent. per annum, and the other dated 28th day of August 1918 to secure repayment of Rs. 6,000 with interest thereon at the rate of 8 per cent. per annum with quarterly rests subject to the two attachments. On evidence it appears that the judgment-debtor Nirmal Chandra Dutt has paid interest on the mortgage for Rs. 20,000 in favour of Mr K. S. Banerjee up to the 5th day of January 1919.

The sum for the recovery of which the sale has been ordered is Rs. 30,127-8 with interest thereon at the rate of 6 per cent. per annum from 30th day of August 1916 until realization, and the costs.

The conditions of sale may be seen at the office of the Sheriff of Calcutta on the ground-floor of the court-house on any day before the sale and will be produced at the sale.

REPORT ON FAMINE IN THE DISTRICT OF BANKURA FOR THE WEEK ENDING 5th JULY 1919.

During the week the rainfall was general. Transplantation of aus and aman paddy is proceeding. Seventy-two relief-works were open during the week. The number of persons relieved on works was 6,492. The number of persons in receipt of gratuitous relief was 20,039. viz., 15,251 on cash doles in 114 Unions, 3,479 on paddy husking advances, 782 weavers and 527 better class poor The total number of persons relieved was 26,531. The decrease in the number of persons on relief-works was due to heavy rains and active agricultural operations, while the increase in numbers on gratuitous relief was due to the opening of new relief centres. The number of persons relieved on private works was 2,000. Also four Charitable Societies relieved 1,799 other persons by rice doles. Offences against property are increasing. The physical condition of workers and public health are good. Fodder and water are sufficient. Cloth is being distributed to destitutes. The relief measures are adequate. The price of common rice varies from 5 to 5½ seers per rupee. About 900 maunds of Burma rice were sent out for sale in the district.

RESOLUTION ON THE PROPOSED CURRICULUM OF SCHOOLS IN BENGAL.

GOVERNMENT OF BENGAL.

GENERAL DEPARTMENT.

Education Branch.

CALCUTTA, THE 14TH JULY 1919.

RESOLUTION—No. 1123Edn.

READ—

Letter from the Director of Public Instruction, Bengal, No. 377, dated the 22nd May 1919.

The question of the simplification and unification of the different curricula for primary schools which are now in force in West and in East Bengal has for some time past been under the consideration of the Director of Public Instruction. The matter was considered by a Conference of educational officers and by a subsequent Conference of Inspectors of Schools, after which detailed syllabuses of study, covering the whole of the primary school course, were drawn up. The Director of Public Instruction has now submitted these syllabuses to Government with a recommendation for the adoption of a simple and uniform cirriculum for the whole Presidency. The whole course which extends over 5 years, has been so arranged that pupils who desire to proceed to middle and high schools can do so without inconvenience at the close of class IV. The work of class V will be of a vocational nature and is intended to suit the requirements of those boys whose studies would ordinarily not extend beyond the primary stage.

2. The curriculum now proposed includes a wide range of subjects, but three only in which alone a fair standard of teaching may be expected from the average teacher, will be compulsory, viz.,

(1) Bengali (beginning with the alphabet and ending with simple composition and elementary grammar),
(2) Bengali handwriting,
(3) Arithmetic.

The primary scholarship examination will be confined to these three subjects.

The optional subjects will be as follows :—

(1) History.—This subject will not be formally taught below class V. The readers used in the lower classes will, however, contain stories culled from history, and the teachers will supplement the grounding thus given by the verbal narration of historical incidents.

(2) Science.—In stages I and II the pupil will be taught to observe plants, animals, birds, etc. In stage III he will be taught to observe accurately such phenomena as clouds, rainfall, &c., and to record his observations. In stage IV the principles of growth will be explained. In stage V the children in mufassal schools will learn to make observations of nature and weather, while children in town schools will learn measuring, weighing &c.

(3) Manual work.—The children will be encouraged to do independent work.

(4) Geography.—The children will begin with the recognition of simple geographical phenomena and end with a detailed study of the geography of India.

(5) English.—The teaching is excluded from the preparatory stage and will be confined to class V, so as to keep the primary school organization in touch with that of secondary schools.

(6) Drawing.—The object of the syllabus is to train pupils in the art of accurate observation and correct expression.

(7) Music.—
(8) Drill.— } Details are given in the syllabus.

(9) Hygiene.—The necessity of personal cleanliness and healthy surroundings is to be impressed upon the children.

(10) Domestic economy and needlework (for girls' schools only).

3. The syllabuses for the different subjects enumerated above are published for general information and the Governor in Council will be glad of criticisms or suggestions on the following points, namely :—

(1) whether the syllabuses as regards compulsory and optional subjects are sufficiently comprehensive ;

(2) whether they are suited to the capacity of the pupils for whom they are intended ;

(3) whether they are likely to fulfil the objects for which they have been drawn up ;

(4) whether the length proposed for the primary school course is adequate or whether its duration should be made longer or shorter ;

(5) whether sufficient or suitable differentiation has been made between urban and rural schools ;

(6) whether the number of hours to be devoted to each subject is adequate ; and

(7) whether any of the optional subjects included in the curriculum should be begun earlier or later.

4. All communications on the subject should be addressed to the Director of Public Instruction, Bengal, Writers' Buildings, Calcutta, within three months of the publication of this Resolution in the Calcutta Gazette.

ORDER.—Ordered that the Resolution together with the draft syllabuses be published in the Calcutta Gazette, that a copy of it be forwarded to the Director of Public Instruction, Bengal, for information, that copies be forwarded to the newspapers with the request that they will be so good as to publish the Resolution, and to Commissioners of Divisions (with spare copies) with the request that they will invite all District Boards and Municipalities in their divisions to consider the syllabuses and to forward their suggestions, if any, to the Director of Public Instruction, Bengal, by the due date.

By order of the Governor in Council,

S. W. GOODE,

Offg. Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

Handwriting.

The Teaching of Penmanship in High, Middle and Primary Schools.

THE aim of the present syllabus is to call attention to existing defects in the system of teaching penmanship to bring forward certain specific points of advice, and to lay down a few general principles that will guide the teacher in his work.

General principles.—Whether penmanship is taught in the vernacular or in English, certain general principles have to be observed. It is often forgotten that writing is an art that must be acquired by slow degrees. As such, it must be taught to the learner with the utmost care in the earliest stages. The pupil must work under the teacher's eye in the first instance; and only after he has acquired some degree of skill, may he be left to himself. In schools teaching should be collective. It is necessary, therefore, to supervise the progress of each class as a whole. The pupils of each class must keep pace with each other, profiting by each other's faults when corrected by the teacher, and attaining to a certain uniform level of work.

Existing defects.—At present the examination of handwriting in our schools reveals the following defects:—

(a) The initial stages are neglected. The youngest children are not shown clearly how to form the elements of their letters before attempting to write the letters themselves; nor do they form single letters on any well-defined model.

(b) Handwriting is seldom taught in class under the teacher's eye. Pupils write much at home; but this is done in their own way, without supervision.

(c) There is no uniformity of progress. At present the penmanship of any single class exhibits varying degrees of difficulty and every variety of attainment. One pupil presents a sheet of single words written at home, another a page of connected prose, another of verse, and so on.

(d) The examination of the home-work of any one class shows not only that the pupils have not been shown how to write, but that they do not understand what they have written. The spelling is defective and the words are often arranged in meaningless order.

As general principles, then, it has to be remembered that handwriting demands most careful attention at the start. The progress of the youngest pupils cannot be too slow. The immediate supervision of the teacher is essential. To begin with, penmanship must be done in class under the teacher's eye. Uniformity of work and progress must be arranged. The pupils of any one class should write the same material and in the same way. The correct understanding of the words or sentences to be written is essential if intelligent work has to be done.

Earliest stages.—It has to be remembered that young pupils have untrained hands and eyes. Children come to school before their bodies are mature, and we must exercise their organs in the correct use of writing materials. Great care must be exercised in the introduction to the child of a system of handwriting. He must learn the elements of the letters and the correct shape of the letters themselves. At this stage it will be expedient for him to practise on his slate or on pieces of paper with a pencil, before proceeding to the use of a copy book or an exercise book. Of course, good models must be provided for this practice. Much practice must be given in the formation of single letters and of parts of letters. At this stage and later, remember three things:—

(1) The child must learn to hold his pen or pencil correctly.

(2) There must be plenty of light, coming preferably from the left hand side of the writer.

(3) The position of the pupil's body must be healthy and comfortable.

It has to be noted also that the teacher in selecting his models will put before the child those forms of letters that he will continue to use later in his career. It would be foolish to teach a child one formation of English capital letters, and then introduce him to other formations in the later stages of his work.

Collective instruction.—Let us assume that the rudiments of English handwriting have been acquired. At this stage the pupil will have learned all the single and capital letters and he will have learned how to connect single letters and to write simple words. With the copy book in front of each pupil, careful collective instruction in class will begin. The pupils have each their book and pen before them on the desk or bench. The teacher stands at his blackboard ready to show how the letters have to be formed. In the earlier stages the pupils at the teacher's order will write one word. This must be rapidly surveyed by the teacher throughout the whole class and the essential errors corrected in front of the whole class on the blackboard. Of course, progress at this stage will be every slow. But the pupils will learn by the mistakes of their class mates. From word to word the lesson will proceed, each error being pointed out and publicly corrected. At this stage it does not matter in the least how much has been written; the quality of the work done is the important thing. When it is clear that the class has understood what is required, that it has learned the correct formation and style of the letters, then, and not till then, a home task may be set. There seems to be some difficulty at present in the choice of home tasks. A few words or sentences may be selected from the copy books used by the class to whom the task is given, and the pupils will be told to write these a given number of times in the same style as they have acquired in class. Remember the following points:—

(1) These exercises should not be long or irksome.

(2) They should be invariably corrected by the teacher.

(3) They are to be supplementary to, and not a substitute for, the class teaching described above.

(4) They must be absolutely uniform; each pupil writing the same words and sentences. Only in this way can class correction be made possible and easy.

The same system will be found useful in the teaching of vernacular penmanship.

It will take some time for teachers and pupils to become accustomed to this system of class instruction. Head masters must explain the system carefully and make every effort to have it enforced. Time-tables should be adjusted in such a way as to admit of this class instruction. Lessons need not be of great duration: and in the higher classes these lessons in class may be reduced as the pupils begin to make perceptible progress. But in no case has the importance of this subject to be overlooked either in class or at home. There is a fatal tendency, explained by the demands of the Matriculation examination, to neglect penmanship as pupils become older. This should be rigidly checked and due attention paid to the written work of every boy in every class of the English teaching school.

Method of advanced instruction.—There is much that is altogether mechanical in the teaching of penmanship. It is necessary to pass through the stage of purely mechanical manipulation before any facility with the pen in the writing of a new script may be acquired. When a certain amount of facility has been attained, the intelligent teacher will try to relieve the monotony of the class lessons in penmanship. In the advanced teaching of handwriting in the senior classes of the school the following points should be observed:—

(1) The whole school should be given instruction in penmanship. It may be left to the discretion of the head-master whether he will teach handwriting in the Matriculation class; but existing conditions make it imperative that penmanship in its more advanced stages should be taught from the sixth to the second classes inclusive, elementary teaching of this subject being confined to the two seventh classes. In the case of middle English schools instruction in this subject will extend naturally to the highest classes.

(2) At this stage instruction will be on a basis of correlation. The pupil must understand clearly what he writes. If he does not so understand, he cannot write well. The teacher will explain the meaning of each head line to his pupils before they proceed to write it in class. In this way useful general knowledge will be acquired and instruction in penmanship made more interesting and intelligent One important point to note is that the boys of each class must use at the same time the same book.

Handwriting throughout the school.—A good system of instruction in penmanship will be manifested in the careful work of the junior pupils, in the accomplished handwriting of the senior pupils and in the general appearance of all written exercise work. In the first four years of English study unremitting attention should be paid to class instruction in handwriting and to home exercises in handwriting. This must form an integral portion of the school routine and have its due place on the time-table. In the senior classes copy book practice should be continued under the teacher's eye, while home exercises in penmanship may be somewhat relaxed. It should be carefully noted that class instruction in penmanship will have little value if pupils are allowed to write their exercises in a slovenly manner. Such exercises as are given should be corrected with due attention to the way in which they are written and slovenly work should be rejected.

Arithmetic.

Primary School.

Classes I—IV.

There should be no deliberate teaching of number until five years of age. The teaching of the beginnings of Arithmetic should be founded upon the children's experience of actual objects. The objects should be handled and not merely seen, and the use of abstract number entirely avoided.

The scheme throughout the primary school stage should be spiral; and the old plan of knowledge and rules in water-tight compartments corresponding to the various classes should be abandoned. A rule should not be treated exhaustively at the beginning. The simplest aspect of the rule should be first dealt with, and then the rule should be left alone for a time and returned to later. Every rule should be first presented in a concrete form; and for this practical work on the part of the children is required. After several experiments they should be led to perform the operation "mentally", i.e., without the use of actual objects, and finally proceed to written work. This procedure should be followed whenever a new rule is attempted. In written work it is to be remembered that an intelligent arrangement is as important as getting a correct answer. A scholar is badly taught who can work on paper and yet be entirely unable to calculate "in his head", or conversely, if he can perform an arithmetical operation mentally and be unable to express the same operation, or a harder one involving the same principle, on paper The practice of writing down answers to oral questions in the case of large classes is very useful.

The value of each digit is insisted upon throughout.
In dividing by ten the dividend is moved to the right, past the "decimal point" which is always just to the right of the units' place.

Thus—
43·

Introduce decimal ruler and show tenths. Measure lines to tenths and write both $4\frac{3}{10}$ inches and 4·3 inches. Use paper rulers made by teacher.

Second part of year—

Extension of number up to 500 (+ and −).

History.

Primary.	Books.
History as a separate subject appears for the first time in the fifth year of study. In the primary school curriculum a certain amount of history will be correlated with reading in the readers, and historical stories should be told in the earliest stages. Nothing more than this can be attempted.	Historical tales in the general readers. Oral stories from Indian Legend, etc.
Class V.—Cultivation of the "time sense" is necessary from the first. Extent of periods of 30, 50 and 100 years to be explained. Outline charts of Indian or World history to be shown in order to encourage the correct sense of time relationship. One period of Indian history should be given for moderately detailed study—the Hindu period.	(1) Simple, complete and modern vernacular history of India with main periods defined. (2) Time charts of World and Indian history.

Science.

Classes I and II.

Here the course should be concentric and based chiefly upon elementary observations.

Plants.—The collection and observation of common plants, bark, leaves, fruits, seeds. Flowers: the cotton-tree flower, jessamine, goldmohur, champak, convolvulus, etc. Fruits: papaya, pomelo, litchi, mango, plums, custard apple, plantain, pineapple, jack fruit. Ordinary crop plants: rice, indigo, cotton, mustard, pulses. Common trees: children should be taught to observe bark, leaves, flowers, fruit; that is, each tree should be studied separately with regard to its bark, leaf, flower and fruit.

Animals.—Children should be taught to watch the habits of ordinary domestic animals. They should be taught the nature and habits of the commoner wild animals and snakes.

Birds.—They should be able to recognise the commoner birds such as the crow, blue jay, maina, golden oriel, owl, kingfisher, babui, bak, snipe, duck, pigeon, bulbul, kite, vulture, heron, kola bird.

Insects.—They should know the common insects; the season and time of day at which they appear, and their habits: the mosquito, dragonfly, butterfly, bee, wasp, ant, beetle, spider.

Fish.—The use of fins, gills, etc., should be taught. Skeletons may be shown and the commoner kinds of fish observed.

Life histories.—Throughout the year they should have an opportunity of studying one or two life histories of plants and insects, e.g., brinjal, white butterfly, other moths, silk worm, mosquito, water-beetle, frog.

Class III.

Here the pupil must learn to observe accurately and to record regularly.

The method during the whole of standard III should be entirely that of the nature diary, e.g., daily observation and the accurate recording of observations. The habit of careful recording must be inculcated before the systematic science course is commenced. Bengali weather proverbs should be taught throughout the course.

Class IV.

At this stage the principles of growth should be explained.

(1) The Nature Diary should be continued These observations may be utilised in connection with Geography.

(2) The School Garden.—Garden work to continue into Standard V, the final year of the Primary School. Points of importance are (1) the collections of soils made in the earlier observation of crops; (2) the drainage of the garden; (3) the general situation.

Other experiments, e.g., depth of sowing, effect of moisture, heat, etc.

(4) Plants.—Sow in the garden different plants at different times of year, e.g., sugarcane in March and paddy in April. Measure the rates of growth under different conditions; and, incidently, by so ordering the experiments work out the following principles of growth:—

(a) Plant and soil, the mechanical analysis of soil.

Manual Scheme for Primary Schools.

Primary stage.—Owing to the fact that the infant classes are usually left alone to employ themselves during at least a part of the day, and that manual training in many schools is an optional subject both for teachers and scholars, the exercises should be interesting and so arranged that they can be done by the children independently.

Class I.

Clay modelling.—Simple household utensils, pottery, etc. Modelling in connection with the beginnings of Geography. The children should model from pictures or from models made by the teacher.

Class II.

Stick laying with the use of seeds to shapes shown on a wall chart.
The following shapes may be used :—

An umbrella, a house, a tent, a fence, a gate, a fence and gate, a door, a window, a house with fence and gate, a group of tents, a tree, a plant (with half sticks and a seed), a tree (with half sticks), a tree bearing fruit (small real leaves may be added), a window (with quarter sticks), a verandah, a balustrade, a large house with balustrade, verandah, a door and windows; add fence, gate, trees, plants, a water lifter; add these to house. (Several children should now work together under charge of a monitor.) A man, a cart, a cow, a man carrying, bail gharry, add a box to the gharry. Build up a hât from several new elements, children working together; thus—a stall, a basket of seeds, lentils, rice, miniature bundles of jute. Several children may now construct a hât of four shops. Now add a river and a man rowing a boat, now a bridge, a man carrying a basket on his head, etc.

Class III.

Tear out of paper, according to picture chart, a wall, a house, a man, a tree, a boat, a large pucca house, a cow, a hen, a vulture, a horse, a horse carriage, cow-cart, a bridge, a man with a spade, a man fishing, a man with a lathi. A man with a bundle on his head. Multiply them by folding the paper and so build up a street. A railway engine carriage, etc. Each model may be improved with pencil or colours. Make a book (using a pin for stitching), an envelope.

The teacher may teach any paper folding which he knows; and the first and second classes may combine in this work.

Class IV.

Clay work combined with sticks. The models suggested in the first and second years should be made with clay and sticks combined and any other materials available. The models should be as true to life as possible and should not be flat but standing. All materials may be used, e.g., straw for roofs, leaves for plants, paper for men's clothes, scissors and knives may be used if available

Class V.

Cardboard modelling. All work must be accurate to $\frac{1}{10}$th inch. Glue should be used and not paste. Brass paper fasteners (split pins) are useful. Plenty of coloured paper should be provided. Models must be completely finished before inviting the approval of the teacher; for example, the model may be painted suitably or covered with coloured paper; drawers should also have handles (a piece of cork or wood glued on), hinges to doors, etc. The model must be approved by the teacher in regard to the accuracy of its construction, the testing of dimensions, etc., before the scholar is allowed to decorate it.

The material used should be thin cardboard or thick paper. The exercises indicated below cannot be performed satisfactorily with ordinary foolscap paper or with strawboard.

Two methods of working should ordinarily be followed :—

(1) The scholars should construct their models from a dimensioned drawing shown on a wall chart or in a text-book.

(2) They should construct their models from an actual object by taking measurements of the object and working to scale.

Vocational year of Primary School.

Dimensioned sketches of objects and models given on a wall chart.

(1) Construct a cardboard ruler graduated in inches, half the ruler in half inches, quarter of the ruler in quarter inches, a sixth in eighths and one inch in tenths.

(2) Construct a cardboard scale showing 1" to foot up to 3 feet. Measure and draw plans of furniture to scale.

(3) Draw circles and simple geometrical figures (e.g., triangle, square, oblong) to scale. Cut out in cardboard. Save these models for future experiments.

(4) Construct a cardboard 45° set square. Copy direct from model. Make another half size. Ditto for 30°, 60°, set square. Refer to angles as 1, 2, 3 and make them at each corner.

(5) Draw and cut out triangles using the set squares.

(6) Construct and cut out a protractor.

(7) Graduate and cut out a thermometer scale. Copy from actual object.

(8) Draw and cut out the following flat objects :—A box with sides flattened out, a clock, a house with sides flattened out, a door, a window, a fence (made of pieces of paper cut to scale); a gate, a bridge with pillars, with arches, a picture frame, etc.

(9) Models constructed to scale but not in the flat, an envelope (in paper), a tray, a picture frame (to stand up), a box, a table, a stool, a house, a house with windows and doors. Add a fence to it. Sliding callipers, a weathercock (working model), a kite a windmill, a fan. Embellish and finish all these models in ways which may suggest themselves to an artistic temperament, but on no account must the finishing process be utilized to cover up inaccurate work. This again applies to all manual work throughout the middle school and high school stages.

(10) Simple models in paper and cardboard illustrating History, Literature and descriptive Geography.

Geography.

Primary stage.

Classes I and II (half hour per week).—In the earliest stage all that can be attempted at present in Bengal is the illustration of the simplest geographical phenomena. Children should be led to recognise and name simple geographical facts visible within reach of the school. In this way rivers and lakes will be recognised, but nothing elaborate at this stage can be attempted. The teacher will be compelled to work largely from school pictures, which must be provided. Whenever possible, modelling in clay should accompany these early lessons. Geographical definitions to be based on modelling. Weather observations should be made in conjunction with Nature Study and the teacher should compile a nature calendar from the combined observations of the whole class.

Class III (2 hours per week).—Rudimentary idea of measurement leading to idea of a plan. Stories of other lands. The recognition and the naming of geographical phenomena should be continued. Easy facts of observation recorded in class in the nature calendar Modelling of land forms continued.

Class IV.—The plan of the compound should be explained and understood. Extended stories of description. The main physical phenomena should be now familiar. Recorded observations by individual scholars if possible, but the class nature calendar should be continued.

Class V.—(Preliminary to Regional Work)—Vocational year at end of Primary School course.

1. On the earth as a whole—Shape of the earth.—Globe should be in constant use. If possible each child should have one.

Cause of day and night.

Points of the compass.—These might be marked on the floor of the class room. Children might be induced to observe the phases of the moon and the brighter constellations.

2. Observational work in the neighbourhood.—The work of water—as the most obvious agency which is modifying the surface of the earth. Drainage of rain which falls on the play-ground or any stretch of land covered with gravel.

Visits to a stream desirable. Observations may include variation of pace in the middle and at the sides, the normally bending course, greater rate of flow on the outside of the bend, the relative steepness of the bank on that side, deposits of sand on the inner side, the increased amount of sediment that can be obtained in flood time. This may lead to the following generalisation :

Increased speed leads to more wearing and carrying power.
Decreased speed leads to less carrying power and to deposition.

Clouds and their formation.—A mountain district affords a splendid opportunity for watching the formation and disappearance of clouds. Children should become familiar with different kinds of clouds. The class might watch and measure the shadows of a stick cast by the sun, and note the time of sunset.

3. Description of the types of scenery—as mountains or the sea, which are not found in the locality, and of typical regions such as the poles and the desert. The animals of these regions specially interest children. At this stage pictures of some size and colour are very important. To enable the teacher to form a clear image of the scenes which he is describing, it is useful to study the treatment of this kind of material by able writers, who have the power of appealing to children, e.g., Rudyard-Kipling in the two Jungle-Books.

4. Teaching of the meaning of maps.—Construct rough models of the district in a large sand tray.

Expeditions to be made to different points of view. Small pieces of wood can be used to mark children's homes and well-known buildings.

Following this comes the planning of the class room, etc.

5. Early Treatment of. India.—Survey of the general structure of the country, using a good relief map and a bathy-orographical map.

The climate should be treated as simply as possible, basing it on the children's experience of their own locality.

Results of climate in the shape of crops and areas of population—very simply treated.

The distribution of plants and animals.

India taken as a great agricultural country may be divided simply into—

(i) Gangetic Plain ...
(ii) Indus Plain ... } To be treated separately.
(iii) Dekkan ...

A Bengal village will serve quite well to illustrate an agricultural community of a simple type.

In the teaching of occupations, a preliminary study of the school's district from that point of view is necessary.

Description of farming operations ; how products are disposed of, Calcutta as a port, distributing centre and Capital of Bengal. Different kinds of farming can be described :—crop-growing, stock-raising, dairy-farming, mountain-farming. The Thar Desert may serve as an example of that kind of region.

6. To complete the scheme, a course should be taken of man at the lower levels, e.g., Hunting Stage, which should fix attention on the means at his disposal for obtaining the prime requisites of life and his dependence for success on his environment. At this point a consideration of how "Robinson Crusoe" fared would appeal to the child. Refer to the Gonds—the hunters of the Central Provinces.

7. In addition for the vocational year at the end of the Primary School course the principal continents should be shown on the globe. The distribution of the British Empire should be shown also on the globe. Pupils should know some hing of the essential details of the descriptive or political geography of India.

English.

Primary.		Books
Class V.—The Rudiments. These will consist in recognising and pronouncing English letters and one syllable words. Charts having letters, words and appropriate pictures will be employed; and the method will resemble that familiar to the child when three years previously he learned the elements of his vernacular. But where trained teachers are employed, the direct method should be fully used, and the simplest sentences may be practised. The sentence then becomes the unit of the lesson. The child should express a simple action in his vernacular in the form of a simple sentence. The English equivalent is then given; and when the new sounds are thoroughly familiar to the pupil, they may be written down on the blackboard. Having learned to speak easy sentences in this way, it is easy for the child to learn to read and write them. At this stage the pupil has already learned to read and write his own vernacular. It is imperative to encourage the learner to speak in English at the earliest possible time. At this first stage an easy text-book may be used for reading; and speaking and reading should go together almost from the beginning.	This represents only one stage of progress in the middle and high school courses; but in the primary school it represents the beginning and end of the study of English. Primary school pupils should be sure of their English figuring. They should also be able to write a plain school hand and to decipher an address on a letter. A restricted vocabulary of useful words in every-day use should be acquired.	Charts, pictures.

Drawing.

Any syllabus of drawing cannot proceed along the ordinary lines adopted for other subjects. It is useless to lay down a set course for each class in succession, because the progress made by the pupils varies so much, in accordance with individual aptitude and skill, that no single class can be expected to continue to do the same work throughout the year. Moreover, the supply of material differs so widely in different schools that any set course is almost impossible. It is possible, however, to decide upon a method of teaching. Certain general principles may be laid down at the outset. These may be stated as follows:—

(1) Drawing is in the first instance a training in observation and in accurate observation. At the start it does not matter in the least whether the work of the child is beautiful or not. What does matter is the extent to which his observation has been accurately trained.

(2) After this preliminary training, drawing should gradually become an art of expression. The child should be able to put on paper his conception of an incident, or of a story, or the impression which a flower or a landscape makes upon his visual sense. This, of course, represents an advanced stage in his instruction, when he has passed beyond the necessity of single models.

(3) From the earliest stage all drawing must be done from the actual object. No such thing as a copy should be allowed in the school room. In India the application of this principle should not give the slightest difficulty. There is an infinite number of simple and beautiful objects, from the brass vessels of the household to the fruits, flowers and leaves of the country.

If these three principles are clearly understood, all that remains for the teacher is to determine his method and the instruments which he will put into the hands of his pupils.

Earliest stages of instruction.—Children should be provided with pencils and with odd pieces of paper having a good surface. There is no need to provide drawing books at the beginning; but a pupil may be promised a drawing book when he has shown some progress with simpler material. No india rubber should be used by the children. If the black-board is used by the teacher of show how to begin and develop a drawing, the pupils must not copy the teacher's work, but must look carefully at the object itself and draw from it. At this stage the utmost care must be taken to secure the exercise of accurate observation. If a child is drawing a familiar fruit or leaf, he is almost certain to put down on paper his general idea of the flower or leaf, and not a representation of the object as he actually sees it. For this reason it is advisable to give models to young beginners that have distinct characteristics in their shape. The left hand side of the drawing should be first attempted, as this method leaves the work clear of the hand and keeps the drawing clean. In arranging single objects for beginners, it is advisable to select such things as will provide various grades of difficulty, for example, if a beginning is made with a leaf, it is easy to advance from the single leaf to a simple spray and thence to sprays with flowers and so on. This arrangement must be left to the common sense of the teacher; and the rate of progress should differ with individual pupils according to their skill and aptitude.

Each single object must be carefully analysed and reproduced as it actually appears to the pupils. Take for example a single leaf. This object must be considered from the point of view of size, proportion and shape. The number of ribs should be carefully noted, and not guessed at, and the way in which these ribs branch from the midribs should be carefully observed. All this can be explained by the teacher orally; and to begin with the pupils may be asked to give their observations in words. The actual drawing should be done in this way. The midrib should be drawn first with due attention to its position and curve. The left outline of the rib will then follow, and after this the right outline can be put in. There is no better object than this as an example of the method to be followed; and the variety of leaves in India is certainly adequate, Each drawing must be carefully checked from the point of view of the child's observation; and every care should be taken to insist upon the reproduction on paper of the essential features of the object. For this reason the drawing should never be on a small scale. It is better to make the work too large than too small.

There is a great variety of leaves in India, and much practice may be given in realising their essential features and in reproducing these. Other easy objects may be found amongst common fruits and vegetables that possess definite shapes and that are likely to impress the eye of a child.

Instruments to be employed.—In the great majority of schools the only instruments procurable are paper and pencil. Much can be done in the use of the pencil alone, and in the later stages of instruction a certain amount of pencil shading might be aimed at. Attention should also be paid to the quality of the line. But for young children by far the most useful instruments, in addition to the pencil, are pastel crayons. These may be used for colouring pencil drawings. With these crayons colours may be mixed, one being put on the top of the other. The colour should be put on lightly and rubbed in with the little finger. The effect is usually soft and pleasing. Instruction in the mixing of colours is, of course, necessary Many schools will be able to secure these pastels at any school supply depôt in Dacca or Calcutta. Here again the training of the observation is of the first importance. The true colours of the natural object must be discussed by the teacher and the pupils, and the variations in the colour must be observed. Other instruments may be secured by preparing coloured inks from chalks and in the use of paint boxes. The latter demand the use of brushes; and if these are introduced, care must be taken to give the children practice in brush work at a fairly elementary stage. This means little more than the manipulation of the brush in a variety of easy forms. It is clear that no great advance in artistic work can be made unless all these instruments are employed. But in primary elementary schools, where expensive apparatus cannot be secured, a valuable training in observation may be given by means of pencil and paper alone. Whenever possible it is desirable to introduce some kind of colour-work, as this in itself is of great interest to the beginner.

Progress in the Simpler Methods.—In the use of pencil, crayon on brush, progress will depend upon the skill and capability of individual pupils. In Art work it is essential to recognise and foster individual talents, and no single pupil should be kept back in order to keep pace with the class to which he happens to belong. This individual progress can be encouraged by the provision of harder models and of more difficult instruments such as crayons and paint-boxes. The principles of instruction will remain the same: but the models to be used and the complexity of their grouping will differ from one stage to another. Here everything depends upon the teacher. It is easy to advance from leaves to sprays and flowers. Fruits and vegetables may be had in abundance, and these provide every variety of shape, mass and colour. But these objects do not exhaust the possible range of subjects nor the possible methods of treatment.

More advanced methods.

(I) Manufactured objects.—Much useful information may be derived from the study of manufactured objects such as brass utensils, cubes, cones, cylinders, tins, buckets, lamps, chairs, tables, bottles, etc, etc.; indeed any manufactured object whose shape involves a knowledge of perspective. Here there is the advantage of the simple instrument, pencil or pen and ink; and there is the additional advantage that with these instruments a certain amount of shading may be attempted. It is expedient to introduce this type of object as early in the course as possible; and to teach the elements of perspective as soon as the pupil has mastered the rudiments of form and learned to observe with some degree of accuracy. The following points should be noted :—

(1) To begin with, the drawing of solids, such as a tin or cylinder, will involve the use of "construction lines". These will be removed on the completion of the drawing. Here also accuracy of observation is essential. The shape of a circle and ellipse varying with the point of view of the observer should be carefully noted. A box seen from various points presents a useful study. Take the following nine positions :—

(1) the box placed below the eye.
(2) Ditto above the eye.
(3) Ditto at the left of eye.
(4) the box placed at the right of eye,
(5) Ditto below and at the left,
(6) Ditto above and at the left,
(7) Ditto below and at the right,
(8) Ditto above and at the right,
(9) Ditto directly in front of the eye.

In each position it is essential to draw exactly what and how much is seen. From these positions the elementary principles of perspective may be taught. Subjects of greater difficulty may be arranged by grouping solid figures.

(2) In drawing solids attention should be paid to light and shade. A bottle or glass placed against a white background, and at sufficient height above the floor to throw a shadow, is a good model. The pupils may be shown how to differentiate between light and shade and how to express this by pencil work. In time they should be able to shade any solid figure and so produce a pleasing artistic effect.

(3) Solid objects lend themselves to pen and ink work. This is valuable as a training in so far as it dispenses with india rubber, is a good substitute for colours and is final in itself: the first attempt cannot be altered as in pencil. Shading may be usefully practised in this way; and pupils will probably welcome the use of the pen as a proof of their progress.

The above suggestions are easily applicable to all schools, and depend little, if at all, on the supply of expensive material. Brass utensils, drinking vessels, boxes, bottles and any familiar object may be requisitioned as models. In the study of solids there is much scope for "ruler drawing" but such work does not come within the scope of any Art syllabus and belongs properly to manual and cardboard work. In the latter, accurate measurements by means of instruments on paper or cardboard are essential. But this involves not so much a training in observation, as practice in the use of instruments, and may be started whenever the pupil is able to do the simplest type of paper or cardboard work.

(II) Mass Drawing.—All the objects named above, both natural and manufactured, are useful for mass drawing. This involves a change of method. No outline is required but the object is built up as it were from the centre outwards. The crayon or chalk or charcoal should be held in the centre and the object produced by rubbing from right to left until the correct shape and mass are represented. This method is best illustrated by pastel crayons; but white chalk on brown paper, or charcoal on white paper is equally useful and easily procured. Fruits and vegetables are the best models for this treatment.

(III) Blackboard Drawing.—This mode is not easy with large classes unless special apparatus is provided, as for example, the walls of the room prepared for drawing, or boards and easels provided for each pupil. The method has many advantages. Work can be done on a large scale and is easily corrected; additional training is given to the hand and arm, and ambidexterous work can be encouraged.

Complex subjects of study.—When practice has been given in the foregoing methods and a considerable range of objects has been studied, it will be possible to take up more advanced work. To begin with, this should take the form of more complex objects of study, the difficult grouping of single objects, complicated arrangements of flowers and the study of trees. Animals and birds should now be employed and human figures. When the range of objects has been thus widened and made more complex, it is possible to practise some of the following methods:—

(1) Memory drawing—This may be introduced at a very early stage, but its value is likely to be better realised when the objects become harder. Having drawn from the actual object, the pupils may be asked to draw the same object from memory. This gives a valuable training in the observation of essential features, and compels a certain concentration of mind.

(2) Drawing from imagination—This may be made an exercise of great interest. Pupils may be asked to illustrate historical or other picturesque incidents in their reading lessons. Little can be expected at first, but the simplest attempts are of value. If the pupils have covered a considerable range of objects, including the human figure, this exercise should arouse great enthusiasm and should be capable of much extension.

(3) The study of movement—This will be taken up with the drawing of animals, trees and human figures, and should precede drawing from imagination. Exercise in the latter will compel the pupil to acquire some skill in the expression of action.

In these more advanced stages drawing should be recognised in the school as a definite method of expression, and should be freely used in other branches of study. It is essential in Nature Study and in Geography. The main features of the local landscape should be familiar to the pupils, and they should be able to reproduce these. Apart from its specific uses, a training in drawing is of the utmost value in school-life. The work should be so directed by the teacher from the outset as to produce orderly habits of mind, and a certain neatness and dexterity in the use of pen or pencil. Observation and concentration of interest must be encouraged; and in the bringing of a piece of work to completion in a reasonable time there enters the element of discipline. It will be long before work of really artistic value appears in the class room, but the observation and appreciation of natural beauty must be encouraged; and in drawing this appreciation usually brings a speedy reward in the obvious superiority of the war.

Care of infants.—Bathing; use of mustard oil; cleanliness of clothing; preparation of foods; sleep. Proper treatment and handling of infants.

Abuse of drugs and intoxicants in districts in which the consumption of drugs and intoxicants prevails among women.

Class V.

(a) Village Sanitation.—Causes of the insanitary condition of a Bengal village and their influence on the prevalence of malaria—(1) jungles; (2) filthy tanks and too numerous surface collections of water; (3) too close proximity of cultivated lands to dwelling-houses; (4) bad drinking water; (5) inefficient drainage, etc. Measures for improved sanitation.

(d) Abuse of drugs and intoxicants in districts in which the consumption of drugs and intoxicants prevails among women.

N.B.—The work throughout these standards should be made as practical as possible. Hardly any value attaches to this subject, unless it is taken in a practical manner. They will only be possible in respect of all branches of the subject in boarding schools, but day schools may nevertheless do much in this way.

Hygiene for Boys' Schools.

In the first three classes of Primary Schools in this Presidency lessons on Hygiene should be entirely oral. These lessons should take the form of talks on the following or similar topics :—

(a) The necessity for personal cleanlines.

(b) The necessity for keeping rooms clean.

(c) The necessity for pure water, fresh air, sunlight and ventilation, the danger of shutting up sleeping-rooms.

(d) The danger of insanitary and dirty habits, such as spitting.

(e) The necessity of exercise.

(f) Some information as to how simple complaints—wounds, snake-bites, burns, etc., should be treated: how a drowning person should be handled, etc.

The teaching must proceed not merely by precept but by example. The first essential, then, is that the teacher himself should be a man of healthy and clean habits: the second that the school should be well ventilated and scrupulously clean; the teacher should also insist that every child who comes to school must be clean and tidy.

Class IV.

1. Cleanliness—Skin and hair.
   Clothing and bedding.
   Food.
   Water and air.
   Bathing.
   Dwelling house.

2. Stimulants—Bhang, charas, etc. Cigarettes and spirits.

3. Contagious diseases—malaria, small-pox, plague, cholera—cause prevention and cure.

4. First aid—Hæmorrhage, fractures and drowning.

DISTRICT REPORTS ON WEATHER AND CROPS.

For the week ending on the 10th July 1919.

Summary.—The rainfall was generally heavy in Eastern Bengal and was light to moderate elsewhere. More rain is still needed in some western districts. The recent rain has greatly facilitated the transplanting of winter paddy and has improved the prospects of standing crops. Harvesting of jute and autumn paddy has commenced in the low-lying tracts of Eastern Bengal. The average price of common rice for the Province has slightly risen as compared with that of the previous week. The average number of persons engaged daily on test works in the Brahmanbaria subdivision of Tippera was 2,222.

No. 620, dated Simla, the 5th July 1919.

NOTIFICATION—By the Government of India, Department of Revenue and Agriculture (Forests).

THE following notice relating to appointments to the Indian (Imperial) Forest Service in 1919 is published for general information.

2. It is proposed to select 15 probationers for the Indian Forest Service from officers or men serving, or who have served, in India or Mesopotamia. Applications for appointment should be submitted on a "Personal Record form—Officers" in the case of an officer, or on a "Non-Military Employment form (India)" in the case of other ranks, through the proper channel, to the Secretary, Central Employment and Labour Board, Simla, and should reach him not later than (in the case of applications from those serving in India) 15th August 1919. (in the case of applications from those serving in Mesopotamia) 20th August 1919.

It is advisable that applications be accompanied by a certificate of fitness from a Government Medical Officer.

3. Candidates for appointment must be officers or men who have served in His Majesty's Naval, Military, or Air Forces during the war for not less than one year. One year's service, however, is not required in the case of those discharged owing to wounds or other injuries, or sickness arising out of the war.

4. Candidates must have been born on or after the 2nd July 1892 and on or before the 1st July 1900.

5. Every candidate must be a natural-born British subject, and at the time of his birth his father must have been, and must since have continued to be, a British subject.

6. Candidates may be married or unmarried

7. Candidates must produce evidence of good character.

8. It is essential that candidates should have received a good general education such as would ordinarily enable them to pursue a course of study at a University and obtain a degree. Preference will be given to those who have had some University training in natural science or forestry, and whose course of studies has been interrupted by military service. An elementary school education is insufficient. Army certificates of education do not represent an adequate standard of attainment.

9. Candidates selected to appear before the Selection Committee referred to in paragraph 10 must satisfy a Medical Board, which will sit on the same day as the Selection Committee, as to their physical fitness for the strenuous work of the Indian Forest Service. Particular stress is laid on good vision and hearing. Men discharged owing to ill-health are unlikely to be suitable. Special consideration will be given to candidates who have been wounded. but (1) injury to head, (2) deafness, (3) loss of an eye, (4) loss of a leg above or through the knee, must be regarded as disqualifications.

10. Candidates who appear from their forms of application to be primâ facie eligible for appointment, will be interviewed by a Selection Committee, on whose advice the Government of India will act.

11. Selected candidates who have no special qualifications will be placed on probation for a period of two years, during which they must undergo special courses of instruction in forestry at Oxford University, supplemented by theoretical and practical instruction during the vacation under the Director of Indian Forest Studies. (Special arrangements will be made for those who have already received training at other Universities). Selected candidates with special qualifications, such as a degree or diploma in forestry, may spend a shorter period on probation (see para 12).

Passage to England.—Each selected candidate will be provided with a free first class passage to England.

Selected candidates, who have not already been demobilized, will be demobilized before proceeding to England. They will receive no allowances from the date of demobilization, until they return to India on final appointment, except those specified in paragraph 14.

12. Period of Probation.—Before appointment to the Indian Forest Department a probationer is required—

(i) to have obtained, either before selection as probationer, or within the period of two years' probation, the University degree and the diploma in Forestry at Oxford, unless already in possession of the Edinburgh University degree in Forestry or the Cambridge University Forestry diploma;

(ii) to have undergone a special course of instruction in Forestry, under the direction and supervision of the Director of Indian Forest Studies, appointed by the Secretary of State for India in Council;

(iii) to have passed an examination in Forest Engineering and, if required, in certain other special subjects, namely, Systematic Botany of Indian trees, Indian Geology, Forest Law, Indian Working Plans, and an Indian vernacular language;

(iv) to have undergone a final competitive examination in Forestry (see Appendix I);

(v) to have satisfied the Secretary of State, in such manner as may be determined, of his ability to ride.

The Director of Indian Forest Studies instructs probationers in each case as to the order and manner in which they should fulfil these various requirements.

13. Charges.—The probationers are required to defray all expenses of lodging, board, tuition, and excursions while at the University, and on practical instruction, with the exception of fees payable to local forest officers in Europe.

14. Allowances.—The Secretary of State for India in Council makes payments to each probationer at the rate of 150*l.* annually, not exceeding a total of 300*l* (besides the fees to local officers mentioned above). These payments are ordinarily made on the following dates in each year:—

On the 1st December	45
On the 1st March	45
On the 1st June	60

The cases of probationers whose probation does not extend over the full two years will be specially considered.

The grant of the allowances is subject to the following conditions:—

(a) that the progress of the probationer in his studies in satisfactory;

(b) that the probationer gives security to refund the payments in respect of this advance, as well as such payments, not exceeding 60*l.* in all, as may have been incurred by the Secretary of State on the probationer's behalf in respect of fees to local forest officers, in the event of his failing to qualify for an appointment in the Indian Forest Service, or not signing the articles of agreement as specified in paragraph 17, or failing to join the Indian Forest Service at the end of the period of probation.

15. Conduct.—Every probationer is required to conduct himself during the period of probation in a manner satisfactory to the Secretary of State, and to give evidence of satisfactory progress in his studies in such a manner as may be required, failing which, or in the event of serious misconduct, he is liable to have his name removed from the list of probationers.

16. Appointment and Seniority.—Probationers who comply with the requirements of Regulation 12 within the sanctioned period of time, and also satisfy such other tests as may be prescribed, are appointed Assistant Conservators in the Indian Forest Department, provided they are of sound constitution and free from physical defects which would render them unsuitable for employment in the Indian Forest Service. Their position in the provincial Forest Lists is determined by the Secretary of State for India in Council on the report of the Director of Indian Forest Studies; but in making selections for the post of Conservator, officers joining the service in the same year are reckoned as equal in seniority unless the Secretary of State for India in Council has for special reasons directed otherwise in any particular case or cases.

Probationers are allowed at the end of the period of probation to state their preference in respect to the Provinces to which they desire to be allotted; but the distribution is made to the several Provinces according to the needs of the public service, at the discretion of the Secretary of State for India in Council. Officers are, however, at all times liable to be transferred from one Province to another at the pleasure of the Government of India.

17. Articles of Agreement.—A probationer is required, on qualifying for appointment as Assistant Conservator, to sign articles of agreement setting forth the terms and conditions of his appointment; he must embark for India when required to do so by the Secretary of State. Failure to embark at the stated time will, in the absence of satisfactory explanation, lead to forfeiture of appointment.

18. Passage to India.—Each probationer on appointment to the Indian Forest Service is provided with a free first-class passage to India.

19. Salary.—An Assistant Conservator of Forests draws pay at the rate of Rs. 380 a month (equivalent to 304*l* a year, when the rupee is at 1s. 4*d*.) from the date of his reporting his arrival in India. But candidates selected under the present regulations whose age is 27, 26 or 25 years will, on appointment, be credited with service of three years, two years, or one year respectively. The years of service so credited will subsequently count for purposes of pay and promotion, but not for leave or pension.

20. Promotion, Leave and Pension.—Promotion, leave, and pension are governed by the Regulations laid down by the Government of India, and applicable to Forest officers, such regulations being subject to any modifications or alterations which may be made in them from time to time by the Government of India, and their interpretation in case of any doubt arising being left to that Government.

Certain information regarding appointments in the upper controlling staff of the Indian Forest Service will be found in Appendix II, and a summary of information regarding Leave and Pensions is contained in Appendix III.

APPENDICES.

APPENDIX I.—FINAL EXAMINATION.

1. With a view to the allocation of the annual Currie Scholarship for Indian Forest Students (value about 35*l*.), and to facilitate the allotment of probationers to the several provinces in accordance with paragraph 16 of the Regulations as to appointments in the Indian Forest Service, probationers who have completed their prescribed course of training are required to undergo a competitive final examination in Forestry.

2. A list of the probationers in order of merit is prepared by adding together (a) the marks obtained at the final examination, and (b) the marks obtained during the course of practical training in Forestry under the control of the Director of Indian Forest Studies. The maximum of marks obtainable under (a) is the same as under (b).

3. The final examination consists of an oral examination and three or more papers, as follows:—

APPENDIX III.—LEAVE AND PENSION.

[NOTE.—The following is a brief summary of the general principles at present governing the grant of leave of ordinary kinds and pension to officers appointed to the Indian Forest Service by the Secretary of State from the United Kingdom. The rules are subject to alteration from time to time, and are to be found in full in the authorised text for the time being of the Civil Service Regulations.]

Leave.

1. Leave of absence can never be claimed as of right, and is given or refused at the discretion of Government.

2. Subject to this qualification, an officer is entitled to one month's privilege leave after every eleven months of continuous duty. Privilege leave may be accumulated up to three months and may be combined with furlough, special leave, or extraordinary leave without allowances. An officer on privilege leave is entitled to the full pay which he drew when last on duty.

3. Furlough may be taken after eight years' service, reckoned from the date on which an officer first joined his appointment in India, and thereafter after intervals of not less than three years' service. The amount of furlough which may be taken at one time is limited to two years, and the total amount which may be taken during an officer's service to six years. Subject to these limitations, the amount of furlough due to an officer at any given time is a period equal to one-fourth of his active service less any furlough enjoyed.

4. Furlough may also be granted on medical certificate up to one year to an officer at any time during his service, and up to the amount due (subject to a total of two years) if he has rendered three years' continuous service. In the latter case furlough on medical certificate may be extended, if necessary, up to three years.

5. The allowances admissible during furlough, whether granted without or with medical certificate, are half average salary converted at the rate of exchange fixed for the time being, subject to a minimum for the present of 1*s.* 6*d.* to the rupee during the period for which the furlough is "due." After the expiration of the period for which furlough is "due," the allowance is one quarter of average salary, converted at the same rate.

6. Special leave may be granted at any time for not more than six months on furlough allowances calculated as above. A period of three months' special leave combined with three months' privilege leave is not infrequently allowed to officers during the first eight years of their service—before furlough can be taken.

Pension.

7. After 20 years' qualifying service an officer is entitled to a pension equal to one-half of his average emoluments at the time of retirement, subject to a maximum of Rs. 4,000 a year after service not exceeding 24 completed years, and of Rs. 5,000 a year after service of and exceeding 25 completed years. Rupee pensions are payable in the United Kingdom, subject to certain restrictions, at the rate of exchange from time to time fixed, subject to a minimum of 1*s.* 9*d.* to the rupee.

Officers who have shown special energy and efficiency during an effective service of 3 years as Inspecter-General of Forests, Chief Conservator or Conservator may, at the discretion of the Government of India, be allowed an additional pension of Rs. 1,000 a year, subject to the condition that the officer must not retire voluntarily before the completion of a total qualifying service of 28 years.

8. Officers who are compelled to retire on medical certificate before completing 20 years' service are entitled to a gratuity not exceeding one month's emoluments for each completed year of service up to 10 years, and if their completed service exceeds 10 years to an invalid pension varying from Rs. 1,000 to Rs. 3,000 a year according to length of service.

1. The Secretary to the Government of Madras, Revenue Department.

NOTIFICATION.

No. 1T.B.—The following lists of English and Vernacular text-books approved for use in all classes of Government and recognised schools (both in English and Vernacular) in the Presidency of Bengal for the year 1920, are published for general information. Text-books prescribed by the Calcutta University for Matriculation Examination may be taken as approved by the Department.

[NOTE.—Head Masters of Secondary Schools and District Boards in charge of primary education are authorised to select text-books from the approved list. The Boards may select from the list approved by the Department a small number of text books for use in both Board and Aided Primary Schools under their control, care being taken to discourage anything in the shape of exclusive prescription and to secure that selection is made with the utmost care so as to avoid undue patronage. Inspecting officers should refrain from recommending any books to the teachers of primary schools for selection and in giving advice to District Boards in the matter of selection of text books, should bear in mind that the system of exclusive prescription is to be discouraged.]

Classes VII and VIII—

Model Lessons in the History of India for Higher Classes. (Macmillan & Co.) Re. 1-4. (For teachers only.)

Geography.

The teaching of this subject, by whatever method is adopted, must in every case be supplemented by the use of maps, charts and pictures. Teachers should consult the "Teachers' List" and apply to leading publishers for their lists, as these are now comprehensive and specially adapted to the needs of Indian schools. Such pictures as "Scenes from other lands" (Macmillan) are suitable for school work, are interesting to children and bring brightness and colour to the class room. Head Masters are requested to see that all the school maps and pictures are on view every day and not stored in office rooms.

LIST A.

List of English and Vernacular Text-books approved for all classes of Government and Recognised Schools in the Burdwan and Presidency Divisions of Bengal for the year 1920.

English Literature and Grammar.

For the books recommended by the University of Calcutta as indicating the standard of the Matriculation Examination in English, Headmasters are referred to the University Calendar. It should be noted that these books are intended only to indicate the standard expected of pupils on the completion of the high school course. These books are not suitable for such junior classes as III and IV; and, if used, they should be confined to the last year of study.

For High School Classes.

(1) For classes II, III and IV, the senior books of the following series :—

(e) Fourth Direct Method English Reader. L. Tipping. (Macmillan & Co.)

(2) For English texts suitable for additional and supplementary reading in classes II, III and IV, see list B. Care should be taken to select books that appeal to Indian boys; and some effort should be made to encourage their reading on historical lines, and to make them acquainted with current events. "England and India" (Longmans, Green & Co.) deals with the British Empire in the East, and explains the work done by the British Government in and for India. It is an advanced supplementary reader for senior pupils and teachers. For knowledge of the war a book like Nelson Fraser's "The World at War" (Oxford University Press) is of value.

(3) Poetry :—

(a) The Golden Book of English Verse. J. W. Holme. (K. and J. Cooper.)

(b) English Poetry Readers, Books I to III. M. Crosse. (K. and J. Cooper.) For additional books on Poetry—see List B.

Whenever it is found possible to introduce supplementary reading material in addition to the texts mentioned above, reference should be made to list B. At every stage the power of expression in simple English must be cultivated, along with correct pronunciation and articulation. Teachers will be assisted in this by the "Teachers' Book" in the Reformed series of Readers for India published by the Oxford University Press at As. 12. This series gives the simple principles of phonetics; and should be procured for school libraries and for teachers' use.

D.—In Lower Primary Schools and in the corresponding classes of High, Middle and Upper Primary Schools in this Presidency lessons on Hygiene should be entirely oral. These lessons should take the form of talks on the following or similar topics :—

(a) The necessity for personal cleanliness.
(b) The necessity for keeping rooms clean.
(c) The necessity for pure water, fresh air, sunlight and ventilation, the danger of shutting up sleeping-rooms.
(d) The danger of insanitary and dirty habits such as spitting.

(e) The necessity of exercise.
(f) Some information as to how simple complaints—wounds, snake-bite, burns, etc., should be treated; how a drowning person should be handled, etc.

The teaching must proceed not merely by precept but by example. The first essential then is that the teacher himself should be a man of healthy and clean habits; the second that the school should be well ventilated and scrupulously clean; the teacher should also insist that every child who comes to school must be clean and tidy.

Geography.

The teaching of this subject, by whatever method is adopted, must in every case be supplemented by the use of maps, charts and pictures Teachers should consult the "Teacher's List" and apply to leading publishers for their lists, as these are now comprehensive and specially adapted to the needs of Indian Schools. Such pictures as "Scenes from Other Lands" (Macmillan) are suitable for school work, are interesting to children and bring brightness and colour to the class room. Head Masters are requested to see that all the school maps and pictures are on view every day and not stored in office rooms.

REPORT ON FAMINE IN THE DISTRICT OF BANKURA FOR THE WEEK ENDING THE 12th JULY 1919.

RAINFALL was general during the week, but more rain is wanted for transplantation. Seventy-six relief-works were open during the week. The number of persons relieved on works was 4,279. The number of persons in receipt of gratuitous relief was 20,278, viz., 15,237 on cash doles in 115 unions, 3,651 on paddy-husking advances, 853 weavers and 537 better class poor. The total number of persons relieved was 24,557. The decrease in the number of persons on relief-works was due to rain and agricultural operations. Some works are being closed. The number of persons relieved on private works was 1,733. Also four charitable societies relieved 1,615 other persons by rice doles. Theft of food-grains and petty dacoities attributable to distress are increasing. The physical condition of workers and public health are good. Cloth is being distributed to destitutes. The relief measures are adequate. The price of common rice varies from $5\frac{5}{16}$ to $5\frac{1}{4}$ seers per rupee.

RESOLUTION ON THE REPORT OF THE DEPARTMENT OF FISHERIES, BENGAL AND BIHAR AND ORISSA, FOR THE YEAR ENDING THE 31ST MARCH 1919.

GOVERNMENT OF BENGAL.

REVENUE DEPARTMENT.

Fishery Branch.

DACCA, THE 21ST JULY 1919.

RESOLUTION No. 834T.R.

READ—

The Report of the Department of Fisheries, Bengal and Bihar and Orissa, for the year ending the 31st March 1919.

MR. SOUTHWELL held charge of the Department till the 24th December 1918, when, owing to a breakdown in health, he went on combined leave for fifteen months, leaving charge of his office to Dr. Baini Prasad, Superintendent of Fisheries.

2. During the year under review an experimental change was made in the organisation of the Department. In order to decentralize the work and to bring the Department into closer touch with organised private enterprise it was suggested that a district fishery officer should be attached to each district. An experiment was accordingly inaugurated at the end of the year by the appointment of three district fishery officers. Their main duties will ultimately be to make a complete survey of the districts allotted to them from the fishery point of view; to keep themselves in touch with fishermen and owners of fisheries; to initiate co-operative societies amongst fishermen; to replenish fisheries, both Government and public; and to facilitate the work of export and import. This list is a comprehensive one and contains duties which in the present state of the fisheries and the condition of the fishermen of the province are by no means a sinecure if properly performed.

3. The investigations of the Department into the habits of fish and the experiments in breeding proceeded on the same lines as in previous years. The hilsa investigations as usual occupied a prominent place, but the season was unfavourable for useful work on account of the erratic nature of the monsoon. The monsoon was also responsible for a shortage of the quantity of carp fry available for distribution, but it is satisfactory to note that reports from the previous year's purchasers of fry show that the distribution has so far attained a fair result. An experiment was made in curing and preserving bhekti and other fish for the Calcutta market, but, apart from the paucity of demand for such preserved fish amongst the Indian population in Calcutta, such an experiment can only be financially successful if the curing and drying operations are carried on where the fish is caught in large quantities. In this connection it is interesting to note that a smoking factory has been established at Tamluk and, on the advice of the Fishery Department, remodelled. The experiment the Director of Fisheries proposes to undertake for the culture of fresh-water mussels in some of the Dacca experimental tanks will be watched with interest in view of the want of raw material for buttons.

4. Twelve new co-operative societies of fishermen were established during the year, 8 in Bengal and 4 in Bihar and Orissa; the total number is now 27. These societies were mainly established by the efforts of the department of co-operative credit, but it is expected that in future the district fishery officers will be able to take a more active part in the establishment of such societies.

5. The statistics of fish traffic into Calcutta during the year under report (306,037 maunds) show an increase of imports over the past 4 years, except the year 1917, when 317,146 maunds were imported.

6. The problems which have to be solved by the Department are difficult and will require time for their investigation. The public are primarily interested in the cheapness of fish as an article of diet ; but the close combine which controls the sale of fish in Bengal and the indiscriminate destruction of fry are the two main obstacles with which the Department is confronted in its efforts to ameliorate the situation. With the appointment of the proposed district fishery officers something may be done to rouse a more popular interest in the problems of the Department as well as to come into close touch with the industries, but it is necessary to proceed slowly and to learn by experience. In the present report there are various references as to the manner in which the Department can further be developed, for example by the establishment of centres for investigation in the culture of carp. The Industrial Commission has also indicated that the Fishery Department in Bengal should be more fully developed. All these are projects which will involve a considerable financial outlay ; and they will be considered in due course when Mr. Southwell returns from leave.

7. The Governor in Council has much pleasure in acknowledging the good services of Mr. Southwell, Dr. Baini Prasad and their assistants.

By order of the Governor in Council,

M. C. McALPIN,

Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.
